Rosy Future Projected By Johnson

LBJ Hails Strong And Balanced Economic Growth

WASHINGTON (AP)—A rosy outlook for the nation's economy was projected today from facts and figures reported from the White House, and President Johnson hailed "our strong and balanced economic expansion."

He commented after the Commerce Department reported Thursday a $10 billion rise in the annual rate of the gross national product for the April-June quarter over that for the preceding three months.

That came only a few hours after Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz visited the White House to report to Johnson that total non-farm employment and weekly factory earnings reached record high levels during June.

The announcements broke a self-imposed silence at the White House during most of the Republican national convention, and still contained no direct reference to Republican charges of "fiscal irresponsibility" against the Democrats.

"All I'm reporting is the facts. You interpret them," Wirtz told newsmen.

The Commerce Department made its own announcement of a record $618.5 billion yearly rate for the gross national product—the sum of all goods and services, government and private.

But Johnson was primed with a statement that "we fully expect the gains in the second half of the year to be even greater than the first."

It was the 14th straight quarter, dating back to early 1961 in which the figure has set a new high, and the figure was $100 billion higher than that during the 1960 recession.

Consumer expenditures accounted for $6 billion of the quarter's increase, a smaller percentage than the $8.7 billion added by consumers to the first quarter's $9.8 billion advance.

The quarterly gain bore out predictions made by administration economists in January. They forecast then a 1964 total of $623 billion. The figure last year was $583.9 billion.

Wirtz said non-farm employment hit a record high of 59.1 million in June, an increase of nearly 2 million from May, and record weekly overtime work of 3.2 hours boosted earnings to $103.50 per week, another new high.

Two Sentries, One Pygmy Up With An Atlas-Agena

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Two sentry satellites and a "pygmy" satellite rocketed into great egg-shaped orbits today in a complex triple launching that could lead to U.S. development of a foolproof system to detect illicit nuclear explosions in space.

The trio of radiation-sensing packages rode into space atop a single powerful Atlas-Agena rocket which blazed brilliantly in the early morning darkness at 3:22 a.m. EST.

The Air Force reported 20 minutes later that the 10-story-tall booster had drilled the three satellites into separate orbits.

The exact path was not known immediately but early tracking information indicated the payloads were very close to the intended course ranging from 120 to 63,000 miles above the earth.

All three space messengers were flashing clear radio signals to ground stations.

It was the fourth time the United States had orbited three satellites with one rocket. The record is four in one shot set by another Atlas-Agena last year.

The pygmy satellite was injected into its pre-planned path shortly after the three satellites separated from the booster today.

Because of an intricate flight plan intended to station the twin SENTRY satellites at the high point of the course, officials will not know until about 10:30 a.m. Sunday whether the launching is completely successful.

Small rockets aboard the pair are to arrest them at widely scattered points 63,000 miles up—one about 18 hours after launching, the other about 37 hours later.

The Sentries, each weighing 493 pounds, are forerunners of a network of satellites that will peer electronically more than 200 million miles into space to discover if the Soviet Union or any other nation cheats on the partial nuclear test ban treaty by exploding a rocket-borne bomb far from earth.

'Most Wanted Man' Nabbed By FBI

WASHINGTON (AP)—Thomas Edward Galloway, 43, one of the FBI's 10 most wanted fugitives, was arrested today while practicing putting at a golf course near Danville, Mo.

Director J. Edgar Hoover said Galloway, wanted for interstate flight to avoid prosecution for a gunshot - murder in St. Louis, had no opportunity to resist arrest.

Senate Bid By Bradshaw 'Enhanced'

GOP Candidate Says Convention Outcome Helpful

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Jean Paul Bradshaw of Springfield, Mo., thinks the outcome of the Republican national convention has strengthened his chances of beating Democratic Sen. Stuart Symington in November.

Bradshaw is expected to win the Republican nomination and Symington has only token opposition for the Democratic nomination in the Aug. 4 primary.

"It seems to me Sen. Goldwater has seized the middle ground," Bradshaw said in analyzing the convention results.

Bradshaw said if the Goldwater campaign is conducted on the lines of what he called the moderate platform, "we're on high ground in Missouri."

The situation puts the Johnson administration in a dilemma, Bradshaw said.

"If Johnson decides to move toward the center to save himself and the Democratic ticket," Bradshaw said, "he's going to leave Stuart Symington and other left wing senators far to the left."

"If he rides things as is, he'll lose Missouri and take the Democratic ticket down with him and fail to save Symington."

Bradshaw's accusation that Symington has a record of left wing voting is so well known it would be impossible for him to change his position now. Bradshaw was introduced to the convention at the closing session late Thursday.

Another statewide candidate, Jewett Fulkerson of Liberty, said the Goldwater-Miller team "completes a winning team in Missouri this year." Fulkerson is running for lieutenant governor.

"We have the strongest group of candidates since I have been

Presidential Secret

Harding Daughter Reveals Identity

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP)—A Glendale housewife and mother of three has yielded up a secret kept for more than 20 years: She is the illegitimate daughter of Warren Gamaliel Harding, 29th president of the United States.

Mrs. Henry E. Blaessing, 46, speaking in a tired voice, said she is the late president's daughter by a mistress, Nan Britton.

"I've talked to so many reporters today," she said. "I haven't even had a chance to talk to my sons to find out what they think of all this."

News stories about recently discovered love letters from Harding to another mistress, Mrs. James Phillips of Marion, Ohio, referred to Nan Britton and to the "love child" Miss Britton said she bore out of wedlock.

The Los Angeles Herald Examiner found Mrs. Blaessing living in this suburban community. Miss Britton, now 67, lives in Evanston, Ill.

"We are very close," said Mrs. Blaessing. "She's a wonderful person."

Mrs. Blaessing, listed as Elizabeth Ann Christian on her birth certificate, was born Oct. 22, 1919, in Asbury Park, N.J. Harding, then a U.S. senator, was 53, married, childless and just one year away from the presidency.

In 1921 Elizabeth Ann was adopted in Chicago by her mother's sister, Elizabeth, and

Soviet Space Information To UN Panel

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—For the first time the Soviet Union has given the U.N. Committee on Peaceful Uses of Outer Space a summary of Soviet accomplishments in space research, an informed source said today.

The source said the 30-page document was "extremely interesting," and an encouraging development for the 28-nation committee. The committee will meet at U.N. headquarters Oct. 26 to draft a report for the General Assembly opening Nov. 10.

The United Nations will publish the Soviet summary after it is translated and the Russians check the translation for accuracy.

The United States and other nations on the committee previously submitted information on their space research. The last General Assembly approved by acclamation a program to promote international cooperation in exploration of outer space, including further exploration of the solar system. It also approved the establishment of legal guidelines on space activity.

Goldwater In Move To Cement Control

Wortman Posts Bond

CHICAGO (AP)—Frank (Buster) Wortman, 59, posted $1,000 bond Thursday on his indictment charging that he threatened a race track operation.

Wortman, East St. Louis racketeer, was accused of telephoning a threat to George E. Day, 71, managing director of Cahokia Downs track at Collinsville because track officials barred Wortman and his brother from the track premises. Day received the call in Chicago.

Wortman will be arraigned July 23.

Nab Escapees Near Sedalia Early Today

Gunfire Deflates Rear Wheels Of Stolen Vehicle

Seven law officers' patrol cars joined in a 45-mile pursuit from Marshall to Route 52 southwest of Sedalia early Friday morning and Saline County Sheriff Steve Rimmer finally had to shoot down all four rear dual tires on a stolen 1½-ton truck before two escapees from the Boonville Training School for Boys could be taken into custody.

Sheriff Rimmer started the chase in Marshall and received assistance along the way from the Marshall Police Department, a Highway Patrol trooper, the Cooper County sheriff's department and the Sedalia Police Department.

Lybourn Mann, sheriff of Cooper County, said the two escapees were 16 years of age and were serving terms for burglary. Their homes are in the Kansas City area. Sheriff Mann withheld the two youths' names as they are juveniles.

The youths were two of five who escaped early Friday morning from the Boonville institution. Sheriff Mann said the other three boys are believed to be hiding out in woods southeast of Boonville, but they had not yet been apprehended.

Mann said that upon learning of the escape, he had roadblocks established, but the youths eluded them. The Kansas City pair stole the large truck on Route 87 bypass in Boonville and left by way of old Route 41 missing the sheriff's officers. Owner of the truck is Frank Potter, Boonville.

Information of the stolen truck was relayed to Sheriff Rimmer at Marshall and he intercepted the vehicle in Marshall and began following it.

"The truck turned south on to Highway 65," Rimmer said. "I turned on the red light and attempted to pass them. They almost ran me off the road. I saw I was going to need some assistance so I radioed Marshall police."

Protest Cop Slaying Of Negro Youth

NEW YORK (AP)—About 75 students, most of them Negro, peacefully marched in protest today outside an East Side school where an off-duty white police lieutenant shot a Negro boy to death on the street.

The lieutenant said the boy came at him with a knife.

The circular march was orderly, despite the pickets' chant:

"Kill a cop! Let's go! Kill a cop! Let's go!"

At least 30 policemen were at the scene. The faint chalk outlines marking the spot where the mortally wounded boy fell and where the knife was found still could be seen.

Heavy police reinforcements had been sent into the area in anticipation of a demonstration.

The killing Thursday in a Manhattan street near a public school touched off violence among 300 teen-agers, mostly Negro, and 75 steel-helmeted police.

"Come on, shoot another Nigger," shouted one of several weeping Negro girls.

GOP Nominee Loudly Cheered By Delegates

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Launching his presidential campaign with the declaration that "extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice," Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater moved today to cement his control of the Republican party.

Goldwater told cheering, stamping, horn-blowing convention delegates as he accepted the GOP nomination in the Cow Palace Thursday night that "it is the cause of Republicanism to ensure that power remains in the hands of the people."

"The Good Lord raised up this mighty republic to be a home of the brave and to flourish as the land of the free—not to stagnate in the swamp-land of collectivism—not to cringe before the bullying of communism," he declared.

Cheered throughout his speech he got his biggest hand from delegates who had been warned about the threat of extremist elements to their party when he said: "Extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice. Moderation in the pursuit of justice is no virtue."

Clad in a dark business suit and wearing, as usual, his horn-rimmed glasses, Goldwater marched triumphantly into the glare on the podium after his unanimously elected running mate, Rep. William E. Miller of New York, had accepted the vice presidential nomination. Balloons cascaded down on the Arizona senator as pandemonium broke loose.

Miller, noted as a rough-tumble campaigner, played down his role with a short speech in which he said he was happy to be standing in the campaign at the side of "a man who more than any other I have ever known in American life speaks the truth to the people, courageously stands for principle, and devotes himself completely to keeping America free."

The formalities having been observed and the 28th Republican Convention over, Goldwater turned his attention to taking over the command of the GOP National Committee.

The presidential candidate acted in advance to pick Dean Burch, second man in his campaign command, to replace Miller as head of the committee. He has said he wants to bring the committee actively into the campaign and to channel any future patronage through it.

The triumph of Goldwater's conservatism left some wounds unhealed among some of those who had opposed his nomination. Michigan Gov. George W. Romney said that unless the nominee demonstrates that he is willing to go beyond the platform in some vital areas, such as civil rights, "I will go home and campaign for Michigan Republicans."

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating of New York, who was one of the most active opponents of the Arizona before his nomination, left the Cow Palace immediately after Goldwater's speech. He was followed by about half the New York delegation, setting off a stir of speculation that they were staging a protest walkout.

However, New York National Committeeman George Hinman said there was no such intention, and other New York Republicans said all that was involved was an effort to beat the

21 Candidates Ruled Right To Be On Ballot

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—The Missouri Supreme Court ruled Thursday that all 21 candidates in the 9th Congressional District have a right to be on the ballot.

Without comment, the court rejected Dr. Rutledge Gish's charge that only those candidates who filed before the regular deadline, April 27, had a right to be on the ballot. The Fulton physician filed early.

Another Missouri law, which Gish challenged on constitutional grounds, provides that when an incumbent—who has filed for re-election—dies before the election—the filing period is reopened for five days. Veteran Clarence Cannon, D-Elsherry died May 13 and filing was reopened until May 18.

In the special period 15 Democrats and 2 Republicans filed for the office, making the candidate list in the 9th one of the longest in recent years. It now includes 16 Democrats, 4 Republicans and a non-partisan. Gish asked Secy. of State Warren E. Hearnes July 8 to order all who filed during the special period stricken from the ballot. He refused and Gish asked the Supreme Court to settle the issue.

New Legal Wrangle In Bizarre Murder Case

No Order to Pick Up Dr. Sheppard

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, 40, convicted wife slayer who spent his first night of freedom Thursday in nine years, was assured of more days and nights of freedom today.

The former suburban Cleveland osteopath who has served nearly nine years on a second-degree murder conviction in the bludgeoning slaying of his wife, had expected to be returned to prison today.

STILL FREE — Dr. Samuel Sheppard, convicted of the murder of his wife in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1954, is still free today despite a U.S. Appeals Court order that stayed a district court order releasing Sheppard.

But these late developments assured Sheppard of more days of freedom:

United States marshals declined to pick up Sheppard—who is staying at a plush Columbus motel—without an arrest order.

Judge Lester L. Cecil of the U.S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals declined to issue such an order. Cecil issued a stay order Thursday, about 24 hours after a U.S. District Court judge granted Sheppard freedom on a habeas corpus motion. But the stay came after Sheppard's release on $10,000 bond.

The Ohio attorney general's office said the legal process probably would take several days. In the move to amend, there presumably would be a hearing, perhaps about the middle of next week, in the U.S. Sixth District Court of Appeals in Cincinnati.

Meanwhile, the 40-year-old osteopath was enjoying what may be a brief respite from prison routine. Thursday night he swam in the motel pool, had meals served in his room and visited with relatives. He was reunited with a fiancée he did not know before entering prison just a few days short of nine years ago for the 1954 bludgeoning slaying of his wife, Marilyn.

Grim Poverty Engulfing India Masses

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—A boy squats in the dust and taunts an ant with a stick. The ant races about frantically and the lad smiles on his unwilling playmate.

This might be a glimpse of a child at play in the United States but the differences are sharp and clear.

The boy is dirty, sickly and the rags he wears leave his emaciated frame half-naked. He plays in a dusty narrow strip between two dilapidated buildings, smelly and littered with filth.

Home is a tattered tarpaulin stretched between the buildings. It's all he knows. Here he was born, here he lives and, here or in some other squalid place he probably will die.

Born an untouchable, the lowest caste in India's social system, the boy's prospects of a brighter future are virtually nil. It takes all his father can make as a sweeper to keep the family alive. Money for an education is out of the question.

Even for this urchin things could have been worse. He could have fallen into the hands of professional beggars who would have maimed him in infancy to stir sympathy among alms givers. Such sights are not uncommon in this ancient civilization still struggling toward the industrial revolution.

Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri's Socialist government is trying to better the lot of India's downtrodden, but what could any regime do right away, today, when 356 million of its 465 million people are illiterate, when five million of its citizens are utterly homeless?

The grim, grinding poverty engulfing India's masses makes a stark impression because it is so inescapably widespread and tightly woven into the fabric of Indian life.

Bizarre contrasts result: A destitute family lives in a ditch beneath the wall around a rich man's magnificent mosque. Gaunt men sweat to pull overloaded carts while shiny little cars weave in and out of traffic. Barefooted women workers at a construction site take bricks off a Western-built truck and balance a dozen on their heads as they walk to a wall going up. A well-to-do Indian businessman shoos a stray bullock off the lawn of his comfortable cottage.

Army Pvt. Ronald F. Dick, son of Mrs. Georgia Moore, Route 1, Buncheon, and other members of Company C, 8th Medical Battalion, participated in Exercise SWIFT TRACK, a field training exercise, held near Baumholder, Germany, ending June 30.

During the exercise Dick and other members of the unit aided and evacuated simulated wounded personnel under realistic combat conditions.

The 23-year-old soldier, assigned to the company in Germany, entered the Army in December 1963 and completed basic combat training at Fort Leonard Wood.

He is a 1959 graduate of Buncheon High School.

Industry At a Sedate Pace After Early Rush Forward

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Industry is moving at a more sedate pace now after its big rush forward earlier in the year. The direction is still upward but signs of less urgency are beginning to appear.

The change is showing up in government statistics, and in the revision of past estimates.

Even the updated methods of tailoring the industrial production index to seasonal variations doesn't hide the slackened pace, although it puts June output at a record, the ninth month of highs. The new methods tend to understate advances early in the year and pad out the figures for the summer, when industrial production normally relaxes.

But the revisions show that April and May production made much bigger advances than did June, even when seasonally adjusted. This isn't cause for alarm, since the direction is still upward. It's just something to watch if it sets a trend toward slower gains.

The May figures of the Federal Reserve Board's production index are now put at 131.8 per cent of the 1957-59 average, revised upward from the 130.3 per cent earlier announced for that month. The advance of May over April was eight-tenths of a point. The June figure under the new way of adjusting for the seasonal slack is 131.8 per cent, or a gain over the previous month of six-tenths of a point.

Businessmen also are watching figures that seem to show a slowdown in productivity gains that earlier sparked much of the increase in profits. Productivity is the amount of goods turned out per man hour of labor. Last year productivity was rising enough to more than offset increased labor costs. And profits rose smartly.

The Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., New York, says in its July survey that "the very sharp rise in employment during the first half of the year hints that some slowdown of productivity gains may already have occurred. Expansion of GNP—the Gross National Product—in 1963—at a rate not much different from this year's first-half pace—was accomplished without nearly as fast a rise in the active work force."

If productivity gains slow down further, the bank foresees a time of "adverse cost, price, and profit developments—especially if wage increases accelerate simultaneously."

The Gross National Product figures also are being revised. The Department of Commerce has lowered last year's figures to $583.9 billion from the earlier estimate of $585.1 billion. For the final quarter of 1963 this total of the nation's output of goods and services has now been put at an annual rate of $599 billion, instead of the earlier $600.1 billion.

All of this estimate-changing is watched more closely just now than it might in other times because of the guessing game over how long the present upswing in the business cycle will last. It's in its 41st month—if you ignore a bubble late in 1962—and many experts are rooting for it to last well into 1965. The trend is still upward, even if the pace is a bit slower.

Republican 'Extremism' Causes Howl

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The bitter Republican debate over "extremism" roared on past the GOP convention today with New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller denouncing a statement on the point by presidential nominee Barry Goldwater and Goldwater flaring back with a challenge to Rockefeller to define the term.

Rockefeller issued a statement tearing into what Goldwater said on the subject in his speech Thursday night accepting the nomination.

The target was Goldwater's declaration that "Extremism in the defense of liberty is not a vice. Moderation in pursuit of justice is not a virtue."

"Dangerous, irresponsible and frightening," said Rockefeller.

He said his own reaction was one of "amazement and shock."

And he said it "raises the gravest of question in the hearts and souls of Republicans in every corner of our party."

Within minutes, newsmen encountered Goldwater as he came to the St. Francis Hotel to address the new Republican National Committee.

Told of the Rockefeller statement, he came back with questions.

"Is it extreme action for our boys to give their lives in Viet Nam?"

"Would the governor fight for his life?"

"That would be an extreme action."

Goldwater added:

"I would like the governor, for my benefit and the benefit of the party and the people of America, to put down in writing his definition of extremism."

Goldwater said various American presidents such as George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt had taken what he would consider extreme actions "when defending our freedoms."

"Extremism is no sin if you are engaged in the defense of freedom," Goldwater said.

Rockefeller, who made a run for the nomination in the name of moderation and sought unsuccessfully to get a declaration against extremism into the party platform, said his own reaction to Goldwater's statement was one of "amazement and shock."

Plan Hearing On New Trial For Thompson

MARBLE HILL, Mo. (AP)—Circuit Judge Marshall Craig of Sikeston will hold a hearing today on motions for a new trial for convicted slayer Douglas Wayne Thompson.

Thompson, of Bakersfield, Calif., received the death sentence after being found guilty in Dec., 1961, for the fatal shooting of Herbert Goss, Cape Girardeau policeman, in March, 1961.

Sammy Tucker died in the Missouri gas chamber earlier this year after his conviction of killing another police officer in the same case.

The Missouri Supreme Court ordered the hearing on defense motions claiming there was possible perjury in Thompson's trial. The defense also contends Thompson's confession may not have been voluntary and the examinations of the jury panel may not have protected the defendant's rights.

Judge Craig is handling the hearing in place of Circuit Judge W. O. Statler, who was disqualified.

Charge Local Man In Case At Springfield

The operator of a termite exterminating firm has been charged here with stealing over $50 by deceit and has been arrested by Green County sheriff's officers in Springfield.

Charged is Leslie Potts. Police listed his last address here as the Terry Hotel and said he is about 30 years of age.

Potts was taken into custody Friday morning in Springfield where his mother resides after Sedalia and Pettis County authorities relayed information on their warrant. Deputy Sheriff Jack Couts was in Springfield Friday and was to return Potts to Sedalia.

The state warrant filed by Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fritz alleges Potts obtained $1,030 by means of false pretenses from Elizabeth Falder, 234 South Harrison. He alleged her home had been damaged by termites, the warrant states, requiring extensive repairs and collected the funds for the repairs.

Chief of Police William Miller said their investigation disclosed Potts sold a $50 extermination deal to Mrs. Falder, an elderly woman, and while doing the spraying informed her that termites had already heavily damaged the joists of her home.

Miller said she asked Potts if he could repair the damage and he agreed to do so. The repairs, however, amounted to only about $50 in actual value. Chief Miller said after a bona fide carpenter had inspected them.

The offense took place on July 9, the state warrant alleges.

A federal district judge in Dayton ruled Wednesday that Sheppard had been denied constitutional rights in his trial and ordered him released from prison, setting the stage for a retrial.

Thursday, the balding one-time Cleveland suburbanite walked out of the penitentiary. About the same time, a U.S. appeals court judge in Cincinnati stayed the district court order. That meant Sheppard had to return to prison at least until a hearing could be conducted on the stay order.

The papers necessary to return Sheppard to the prison arrived here about 7 p.m. but state officials could not locate a U.S. marshal to serve them and take Sheppard into custody.

After signing his $10,000 bond papers in the federal building here Thursday, Sheppard went to the motel and told newsmen he would remain there until a marshal arrived.

Card Tricks Entertain Kiwanians

Sleight of hand applied to a demonstration of playing card tricks provided entertainment for Sedalia Kiwanians at their meeting in Bothwell Hotel Thursday noon. The program was presented by Quincy H. Peckham, of St. Louis, who was introduced by his friend, John W. St. Clair, program chairman.

Mr. Peckham is a special representative of the Grinnell Company, St. Louis, of which he was manager for 15 years.

Virgil Dean was introduced as a new member by Louis Hughes, Jr.

Robert Fritz, chairman of the club's annual auction committee, announced the 1964 event would be held Friday, Sept. 11, on the Court House parking lot.

Invocation was by Henry Salveter. Singing was led by David Eisenstein with Mrs. Eisenstein as accompanist. Birthday greetings were extended to the Rev. Roger Fjeld, Dr. Karl B. Gonsler, Sam Ross, Wesley Bunce and Phil McLaughlin.

Richard Dale, past president of the Richmond, Mo., Kiwanis club, was a guest of Henry Salveter.

Released On Bond

Roger D. McGinnis, 17, Beaman, who is charged with second degree burglary and stealing in connection with a house entry in Sedalia June 14, was released Friday from the county jail on $1,000 bond arranged through the Bradshaw Bonding Company.

McGinnis had been held in jail in lieu of bond since June 25 when he was bound over on charges stemming from a burglary of the John T. White home, 103 East 28th. Another youth and two young girls are also charged in the same case.

Milburn Shaw, St. Louis city GOP chairman, said the Goldwater nomination "will give us a tremendous shot in the arm by giving us new young blood in our party. This will give us the youth we need to do some of the doorbell ringing and give us a new incentive."

For the first time in 24 years, he said, the party is setting up a precinct by precinct canvass in the city that often has been a determining factor in Missouri elections of recent years.

Mrs. Anne McElhiney of Brookfield, vice chairman of the state committee, said the ticket is much stronger as a result of Goldwater's nomination.

And Gary Rust of Cape Girardeau, from the normally Democratic 10th Congressional District of southeastern Missouri, predicted Goldwater would "bring out more Republican votes than ever before" in that area.

He said Goldwater has strong popular support in the area, which he noted is basically conservative in its thinking. Goldwater's stand on civil rights won't hurt him in that part of the state either, Rust said.

Party leaders joined in summing up the work of the convention as beneficial in the Missouri election.

Kaleidoscope of Red Cuba

HAVANA — Cuban kaleidoscope.

The windows and front counters of Havana's bookshops are filled with the works of Marx, Lenin, Engels and Mao Tse-tung.

But Cuba's big state publishing house lists its most popular books as: Tales of Edgar Allan Poe, Robert Louis Stevenson's stories, Flaubert's Madame Bovary, a study of the production of sugar, and a textbook on the metric system.

Gray Market prices: a cab driver reported he was offered $14,000 for a well-worn 1960 Buick. A set of four sparkplugs was offered for $60.

The oil, grease and gasoline dripped on the streets by the motors of gasping, turning old British, American, Hungarian and Czech buses have deposited a thick film of grease on many thoroughfares. At times road-scrappers are used to remove the greasy layer which is dangerously slippery when wet.

Night life is still active in Havana. The cabarets are nearly empty during the week but on Saturday nights many are packed. The biggest, most colorful show in town is at the famed Tropicana. There's no scotch or brandy, but plenty of rum. Beer is served only with meals.

Pasted on a time clock in the National Agrarian Reform Institute is a newspaper clipping. It is the story of two men who protected each other: whenever one arrived for work late, the other would punch his time card at the proper hour. The trick was discovered. Both were sentenced to one year in prison.

If a worker quits his job he is not allowed to take another job for a period of one year. Strikes are considered counter-revolutionary crimes. There is no overtime pay, but plenty of demand for "voluntary" hours on the job.

The long lines of tired people seen standing in the streets are usually waiting to buy rationed goods: perhaps their four eggs monthly, or one of the pairs of shoes they are allowed annually—one dress pair, one tennis and one work pair.

In a former capitalist five-and-ten-cent store, a long line of women formed to buy toothbrushes.

The Swiss ambassador, Emil Anton Stadelhofer, has a 1964 Oldsmobile for his embassy. Whenever his chauffeur parks, the car is surrounded by admirers. There is scarcely a U.S. model later than 1959 or 1960 in Cuba.

Havana restaurant prices are expensive—the peso is pegged at par with the dollar. Prices in the Zaragozana, one of Havana's best: fruit cup $1; shrimp cocktail $2.50; consommé $1.25; potato omelette $3; chicken and rice $5; fried chicken $5; hamburger steak $4; rabbit $5; pudding or custard desserts $1.

Most people eat lunches in the "popular restaurants" where they line up by hundreds and for 50 cents eat whatever is served on metal trays.

Stalled cars and trucks are a common sight. The U.S. trade ban has eliminated the supply of spare parts.

The weekly Iberia Airlines flight to Madrid has a waiting list of persons ready to leave at par with the dollar. Prices in Cuba. They could fill every flight for the next year and a half.

else, and the general ordered him to withdraw.

"Wright's remonstrance was couched in dignified, if peremptory terms; and it was left for his exasperated young aide, Lieutenant Colonel Oliver Wendell Holmes, to shout at the chief executive, 'Get down you fool.'"

Whoever told him, in whatever words—Lincoln got down. The invading Confederates were led by Gen. Jubal Early, in a piece of strategy aimed at drawing off some of the Union forces then before Richmond.

Historian Douglas Southall Freeman wrote in "Lee's Lieutenants": "After the war, men said that the charge on the third day at Gettysburg marked 'the high water mark' of the confederacy, and in the just determination of military values, they were correct; but if proximity to the White House, the Capitol and Treasury be considered, then the honor of it fell a year and a week after Pickett's charge to that strange, bitter and devoted man, Jubal A. Early."

Early's strategy of threatening Washington succeeded briefly but he decided to withdraw rather than push his luck. The city was never in real peril, because the attackers were outnumbered and many were exhausted after marching and fighting through Virginia and Maryland.

Lincoln Under Fire

By J. W. DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's just a short ride—less than five miles—from the White House to Ft. Stevens, and Abraham Lincoln rode out 100 years ago Saturday.

He rode north to the fort, which today is restored and stands near Walter Reed Army Hospital. He almost didn't come back, for skirmishing Confederates were out there in front of the fort, shooting at everything that moved.

Lincoln, 6 feet 4 not counting his stovepipe hat, climbed upon a parapet at the fort in order to see better.

"Get down, you damn fool!" Did Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr. yell that at Lincoln? Some believe he did. Some believe it is just another myth that sprang up around Lincoln.

On July 11-12, 1864, Holmes, the son of the famous New England writer, was a young Union officer serving as aide-de-camp to Gen. Horatio Wright, commander of the 6th Corps at the time of its defense of Washington.

Holmes in after life became a distinguished member of the Supreme Court. As told by Margaret Leech, in the book Reveille in Washington:

"This sharp skirmish was the President's only opportunity of seeing troops in action. Both on Monday and Tuesday, with nearly half of his tall form exposed above the parapets, he was under fire at Ft. Stevens."

A sharpshooter's bullet killed a surgeon within three feet of Lincoln. The President remained after Wright had cleared the parapet of everyone.

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Dr. W. Stanley Mooneyham of Wehaton, Ill., a special assistant to Billy Graham, was re-elected Thursday as moderator of the National Association of Free Will Baptists.

The association approved a budget of $1,128,106 for 1965 and named Little Rock, Ark., as the 1966 convention city. The 1965 convention is scheduled for Raleigh, N. C. About 2,000 delegates from 32 states and Canada attended the convention here.

The driver, Jay D. Becker, was in serious condition at St. Catherine Hospital in Garden City with a skull fracture. The passenger, Dayton Johnson had a scalp cut and leg injury.

A Distinction

Two State Counties Have Sheriff From Same Family

By BOB WALDROP The St. Joseph Gazette For The Associated Press

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—Two of Missouri's 114 counties share a distinction which reportedly is not matched by any other counties—their sheriffs come from the same family.

Sheriff S. A. Maudlin of Worth County and his nephew, Sheriff Frank Maudlin of Clay County, say that as far as they can determine no other two counties in the state can claim sheriffs from the same family at this time.

The two counties don't share many other similarities. Worth County, primarily agricultural, is the state's smallest county both in size and population. Its population in 1960 was 3,936.

MoPac Walkout Is Averted By Court Order

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A walkout against the Missouri Pacific Railroad was averted Thursday when a U. S. judge issued a temporary restraining order.

MOPAC filed suit for the injunction late Thursday and it was granted by US District Judge Jas. Meredith. The Order of Railway Conductors and Brakemen had threatened a strike at 6:01 a. m. today.

MOPAC said 17,000 employees would have been laid off and its 2,000-mile system shut down. In its petition, MOPAC said it had not been furnishing strike-breakers to a subsidiary, the Missouri-Illinois Railroad, which was struck by the railway conductors union July 1 in a wage dispute.

The M-I, which operates primarily in Missouri's lead belt and handles freight exclusively, covers a 162-mile system. It is operating with supervisory personnel during the strike.

Man, 40, Electrocuted

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Clarence Simpson, 40, of suburban Lemay was electrocuted Thursday while working at the Alpha Portland Cement Co.

Police said a metal rod Simpson was using to clean a railroad car touched a 34,000-volt electric overhead wire.

More Fireworks Hurts

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Society for the Blind reported Thursday the number of fireworks injuries in Missouri during the July Fourth holiday more than doubled those of last year.

A survey of 103 hospitals in the state showed 299 injuries, compared to 121 last year. St. Louis city and county totaled 114 and the Kansas City area 104.

Drowns In Bathtub

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Seven-month old Patricia Weiss drowned in 10 inches of water in the bathtub of her home Thursday.

Police said her mother, Mrs. Betty Weiss told them she returned from answering the telephone and found the water running and the child lying face down. She said the tub only had four inches of water in it when she left and the faucet was off.

National League Roundup

Dodgers Hitting Averages Hum Since All-Star Game

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers aren't staging any music appreciation nights for Manager Walt Alton, but he has to be enjoying that steady hum of hits.

The defending world champions, closing the gap on the National League leaders since the All-Star Game, continued their heavy hitting at St. Louis Thursday night by walloping the Cardinals 10-2 behind a 13-hit attack.

Ron Fairly again was the key to the attack, collecting his third homer in two nights plus a pair of singles and driving in four runs while the Dodgers finished the three-game set against the Cardinals with 30 runs and 39 hits.

Since the All-Star break, a period of nine games, the Dodgers have hit at an amazing .303 clip with Fairly showing the way at .412. More important, however, has been the awakening of defending batting champion Tommy Davis, finally starting to hit with regularity.

Davis, who hit .326 last season while winning the batting title for the second straight year, has hammered away at .342 since the All-Star Game and lifted his average to a modest, but respectable .268.

The over-all hitting surge has carried the Dodgers to the .500 level for only the third time this season, cut three games off their deficit and pulled them to within eight games of first place—the closest they've been to the top since June 22.

Meanwhile, Philadelphia and San Francisco again exchanged places in the battle for first place. The Phillies rode three hits by rally - starting Cookie Rojas to a 7-5 victory over Pittsburgh and a lead at four percentage over the Giants. Milwaukee's Hank Fischer stopped San Francisco on four hits, 6-0.

Third place Cincinnati also closed the gap in the tightening race, moving to within 1 1/3 game of the lead by downing Houston 3-2 and the Chicago Cubs crushed the New York Mets 11-1.

Fairly, who has hit only six homers all season, provided the Dodgers with the only runs they needed by slamming a three-run homer in a four-run, first-inning uprising. He wound up the St. Louis series with six hits and 10 runs batted in.

The victim of the Dodgers' first-inning surge was Ray Seaver, the Cardinals' big winner who now is 16-7. Joe Moeller won it with Bob Miller's relief help.

The Phillies, winning only their second game in the last eight, scored two runs in the third inning after Rojas started things with a single and came back with three more in the fifth after Rojas smacked a leadoff double. Rojas also collected another single.

The Phillies went against the book in the eighth when Jack Baldschun, working in relief of Art Mahaffey, walked Jerry Lynch intentionally, filling the bases and putting the potential winning run on with two out. Baldschun got out of the jam by striking out Donn Clendenon.

The Braves handed the Giants their third straight setback and added to their own streak by posting their eighth victory in the last 10 games and the 14th in 19 games.

Fischer brought his record to 7-5 and contributed to his own support with a two-run double. He didn't need it as Hank Aaron, Joe Torre and Dennis Menke homered off Gaylord Perry.

The Reds scored the clincher in the third inning, breaking a 2-2 tie, and then held off the Colts behind the relief pitching of Bob Purkey and Sam Ellis. Marty Keough scored the winning run, beating out a hit to deep short and racing home from first on Deron Johnson's two-out single.

Ernie Broglio was touched for 10 hits but won his first game for the Cubs since he was acquired from St. Louis June 15. He had heavy support with Billy Cowan supplying a two-run homer and Len Gabrielson contributing a double and two singles.

Marty Riessen
Confident Of Tennis Ability

RIVER FORREST, Ill. (AP)—To hear Marty Riessen of Northwestern University, tell it, this is the year he is to emerge as the nation's No. 1 tennis player.

It's not that the 22-year-old Davis Cup star is cocky. It's just a matter of believing in himself.

Riessen believed in himself so much Thursday that he won in a cakewalk 6-3, 6-3, 6-4 from South Africa's Abe Segal in the quarter-final round of the 54th National Clay Court Tennis Championships.

Now, Riessen will wait until Saturday to face fellow Davis Cupper Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., in a semi-final match.

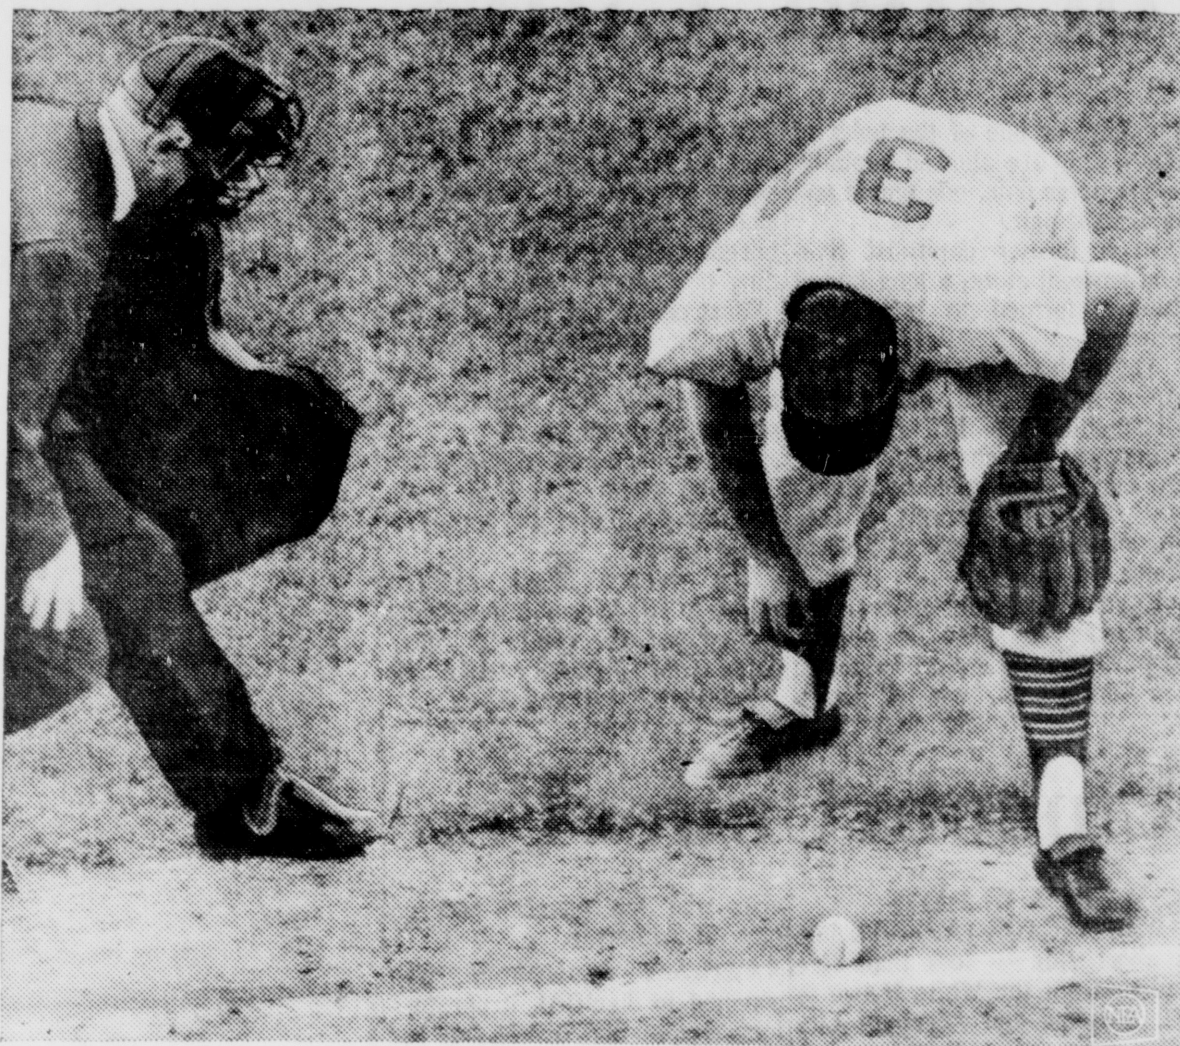

Riessen's other Davis Cup teammate, Chuck McKinley, of San Antonio, Tex., plays his quarter final match today against Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico.

In the other men's quarter-final, India's Premjit Lall, that country's second best player, meets third seeded Frank Froelich of Miami, Fla.

The eyes of the tennis world will be on a match to be played in the women's ranks between second seeded Carola Caldwell Graebner and Peaches Bartkowicz of Hamtramck, Mich.

Constellation
Beats Nefertiti
In Race Trials

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Constellation beat Nefertiti by two seconds over a 24-mile course Thursday in the observation trials for America's Cup defense candidates on Rhode Island Sound.

Officially, however, Nefertiti was declared the winner after Constellation fouled the committee boat crossing the starting line. Constellation continued sailing the course in accordance with instructions from the race committee.

In the other race Thursday, unbeaten American Eagle defeated Easterner by five minutes and 23 seconds over the triangular windward-leeward course. It was American Eagle's sixth victory in the series.

American Eagle now has a 6-0 record in the current trials. Constellation is 4-2, Nefertiti 3-2, Columbia 1-4, and Easterner 0-6.

American Eagle is paired with Constellation today and Columbia will meet Nefertiti. Easterner gets the day off.

The British Cup contender, Sovereign, spent more than six hours off shore, testing various sail combinations in preparation for the start of her elimination trials with Kurruwa V next month.

Errors Mark Game
In Girls' League

The contest between the Lady Bugs and the Beatles of the Chic league in girls' Khoury league softball Thursday was plagued with errors. The Beatles ended up on top, 23-22.

No home runs were seen in the contest.

Marlyn Lower took the loss for the Lady Bugs. Loraine Gravitt was the winning pitcher for the Beatles.

The Lady Bugs and the Beatles will play their rained out game Friday evening in place of the Fillies and Cardinals game which was cancelled due to the death of Mrs. Lola M. Davis, manager of the Fillies.

Mrs. Davis was the first person to volunteer to be a manager in the girls' softball league which was newly organized this year. She was also the league's first secretary.

Yates Adams
A Colorful
New Golfer

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — You can put Yates Adams down as one of the most colorful golfers the game ever has seen.

The 27-year-old dental salesman from High Point, N.C., has reached Friday's 36-hole semifinals of the National Public Links tournament at Francis Gross course with a wildly cheering Adams Army behind him.

Adams is a rawboned 6-foot-7, talks a blue streak and peers out from big glasses.

He would be conspicuous anywhere, even if he didn't wear brown plaid Bermuda shorts and a white tee-shirt.

He has only nine clubs — all battered, including a wedge that is as smooth as a tabletop. The talkative Adams insists he hasn't the money to know where his next hamburger is coming from and he buys one golf ball at a time. He plays with it—whether it is cut or not—until it is lost.

Even a caveman would be able to swing a club better than Adams. He cocks his leg better than he does his wrists, and he lets go like a discus thrower. His follow-through brings the club twirling over his head. But the ball drills out there 280 yards.

On the greens, Adams, at times creeps up on the ball, his putter wagging and taps the ball without taking a stance. And it goes in.

In Thursday's quarter-finals, Adams defeated defending champion Bob Lunn of San Francisco 1 up.

"If I never saw it I wouldn't believe it," said Lunn.

"I didn't even know Lunn was last year's winner," said Adams. "I just go out to play. As for pressure I don't know what that is. The only time I may have it is thinking if my clubs will stay together until I finish this tournament — which is the first major one I've been in."

In the semifinals Adams will face Bill McDonald, a music major at Washburn University in Topeka, Kan., where his father is baseball coach. The other match sends 20-year-old Norwegian born Arne Dokka of Sherman Oaks, Calif., against Dean Wilson, 31, an Omaha Postal clerk.

Rotary C Defeats Lions C at Housel
Rotary C downed Lions C 18-3 in a Little League contest Thursday evening at Housel Park. Ehlers pitched the winning game and Sanders took the loss.

Gary Player
Gives Host
Tip on Swing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—You can't say that Gary Player isn't earning his keep over at Jack Nicklaus' house—and it's pretty steep keeping.

Player, who is Jack's house guest at the PGA golf tournament this week, paused between efforts to eat Nicklaus out of house and home, and gave his host a hint that straightened out his swing.

That's a little like adding an extra story to the Empire State building, or an extra steak on little Gary's plate.

But Jack says he can use all the help he can get this week. He's trying to defend his PGA championship before the home folk, and grab the last spot in the golf World Series.

Meanwhile, Player, known as the South African locust, is setting a grocery bill record. Arnold Palmer is dropping over at night and trouncing Nicklaus at snooker, and baby-faced Bobby Nichols is leading after the first round of the PGA with a record 64.

Nichols' round, achieved with the aid of a $5 putter he found on the back shelf in the pro shop in Anchorage, Ky., was also a record for the revamped 6,851-yard Columbus Country Club course.

Nichols, who comes from Louisville, went to Texas on a football scholarship and wound up playing golf instead, was sharper with his bargain basement putter than Palmer was with the snooker stick.

He finished with a three stroke edge on Nicklaus, who had his best opening round in a major championship all year with a 67. Mike Souchak also had 67.

Palmer had a menacing 68, along with five others, including former British Open champion Bob Charles, the New Zealand left-hander, Billy Casper and Don January.

Ben Hogan, the 51-year-old, two-time champion and all-time great had 70, even par, along with Player, and Tony Lema, the new British Open king, had 71. U. S. Open champion Ken Venturi was at 72, not out of it but needing to get moving.

Cards Downed 10-2;
Tenth Fatal to A's

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

So who's Sandy Koufax? It's guys like Larry Miller, Joe Moeller, Phil Ortega and Bob Miller who bother the St. Louis Cardinals.

Moeller and Bob Miller emphasized it Thursday night as they combined good pitching with Los Angeles' new-found attack for a 10-2 victory over the Cardinals in St. Louis.

The night before, L. Miller and Ortega stifled St. Louis bats in a 13-3 victory.

And the night before, Tuesday, the Cardinals let Koufax have his way for seven innings, then bombed him and relievers for an 8-7 victory.

Kansas City overcame a seven run deficit before succumbing to the Cleveland Indians, 12-9, in 10 innings in Kansas City. Doubles by Woodie Held and Vic Davalillo brought home the runs in the extra frame.

The Cardinals again were never in the game. The Dodgers Ron Fairly who drove in five runs Wednesday night, homered with two on in the first inning and singled in another run in the third for a 5-0 lead.

The Dodgers made it 6-0 before the Cardinals managed to touch rookie Moeller for a run in the seventh on Julian Javier's double.

Moeller left in favor of B. Miller with one out and two on in the eighth. He allowed a run-scoring single by Ken Boyer and then shut the door.

The Indians scored seven times in the first inning, but A's came back with five, highlighted by two-run hits by Nelson Mathews and George Alusik. Mathews drove in the tying run in a three-run third and scored the leading marker. Wayne Causey made it 9-7 with a homer in the sixth.

But a home run by Joe Azcue and a run-scoring single by Dick Howser tied it in the eighth.

Roger Craig (5-4) will open a four-game series for the Cardinals against the New York Mets tonight. Galen Cisco (4-11) will start for the Mets.

Kansas City sends Moe Drabowsky (3-8) against Chicago and Gary Peters (10-4) tonight in Chicago.

Has Records
But He's Not
Quitting Now

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP)—Speed demon Donald Campbell once said he would quit racing if he holds both the world auto and sea speed records.

Now that he has them both as the result of his 403.1 mile per hour auto record set Friday, the 43-year-old Briton apparently intends to keep racing.

His target is the speed of 407.45 m.p.h. set last Aug. 5 by American Craig Breedlove in a three-ton, three-wheeled jet-powered car on the Bonneville Salt Flats in Utah. This is not an official auto record because of the jet power.

Campbell zoomed his 30-foot, 4,250 horsepower Bluebird to 403.1 m.p.h. twice in two runs over the dry salt bed of Lake Eyre in Southern Australia.

The speed eclipsed the record of 394.196 m.p.h. set by the late John Cobb on the Bonneville Salt Flats on Sept. 16, 1947 in a 2,860 horse - power Ralston Special.

Campbell said the condition of the track would determine when he would make another attempt in his $4 million car.

Campbell set his sea record of 260.35 m.p.h. in 1959 with a jet-powered hydroplane.

Racing came naturally to Campbell. His father, the late Sir Malcolm Campbell, established many land and sea records.

Blast by Barber Puts Orioles In

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

To Hank Bauer, he might be "the disappointment," but to the New York Yankees he's the nemesis.

He—Steve Barber—pitched and batted Baltimore back into first place in the American League Thursday night, leading the Orioles to a 6-1 triumph over the New York Yankees.

The victory pushed the Orioles one-half game and two percentage points ahead of the Yankees and further tightened the AL pennant race. Chicago, a 9-3 winner over Boston, stands in third place, only 1½ games from first.

Manager Bauer, recently discussing his Orioles, labeled Barber the disappointment of the team this season. After all, he was 12-7 with a 2.78 earned run average at this time last year whereas he's 5-7 with a 3.95 ERA now.

That, however, is not the Barber the Yankees have seen this season. The 25-year-old left-hander has won only two games in seven starts the past month, but both have been against New York. He has allowed just one run in each contest.

His victory Thursday night came on a four-hitter and snapped the Yankees' six-game winning streak and the Orioles' four-game losing streak. Even more bitter for New York, though, was Barber's two-run homer in the fifth inning.

The hit wiped out a 1-0 Yankee lead and put Baltimore in front to stay.

In other AL games, Washington knocked off Minnesota 7-2 and Cleveland outslugged Kansas City 12-9 in 10 innings.

Barber's homer was his first of the season and fourth of his career. It came on the first pitch from Jim Bouton after the Yankee starter retired two batters following Sam Bowens' lead off double. Bowens later added a pair of singles, driving in a run.

The Yankees got only one hit after the fourth, Tom Tresh's second single in the sixth. They scored in the second on Elston Howard's double, an infield out and Cleve Boyer's sacrifice fly.

Bill Skowron, playing only his second game with Chicago, drove in three runs with a double and two singles as the White Sox unleashed a 16-hit attack against the Red Sox. Johnny Buzhardt won his third straight game from Boston.

The Twins continued their home run hitting, getting one each from Tony Oliva and Bob Allison, but that's all they got. Don Lock and Don Blasingame each batted in a pair of runs in the Senators' five-run ninth that broke a 2-2 tie.

Cleveland won a wild game from Kansas City with three runs in the 10th, the winning run coming on Woodie Held's double and two more scoring on a double by Vic Davalillo. The Indians rocketed to a 7-0 lead in the first inning but eventually fell behind 9-7.

They tied the game in the eighth on Joe Azcue's homer and Dick Howser's run-scoring single.

Shirley Englehorn Becomes Contender

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (AP)—Young Shirley Englehorn of Los Angeles established herself as a top contender in the first annual Ladies Professional Golf Association Yankee Open at Atlas Valley Country Club Thursday by taking low pro honors in the pro-amateur preliminary with a one-over par 73.

Favored Mickey Wright, who has won seven of 12 tournaments this year including last week's U.S.G.A. Women's Open at San Diego, Calif., played Atlas for the first time and shot 77.

Join Hands In Aid To Brazilians

RIO DE JANEIRO — (AP) Roman Catholics and Protestants have joined hands in a voluntary program that is getting American food to more than two million needy Brazilians.

The program, which gets its supplies from U.S. Food for Peace, is the biggest of its kind in the world.

It began three years ago with a handful of workers. Today, nearly 100,000 men and women, half of them on a part-time basis, contribute their time to this task. Many are retired businessmen and housewives.

The U.S. government supplies the food and transports it to Brazilian docks. But once there, the job becomes the responsibility of Brazilian men and women and organizations, headed by the Brazil Voluntary Agency. This allies the Catholic Relief Service, the Protestant Church World Service and Lutheran World Relief, all cooperating with Brazilian agencies.

Costs of the program in Brazil are almost totally paid by the Brazilian church organizations. The Brazilian government helps by giving duty-free entry to the food from America, providing some warehouses and some transportation.

But the firm backbone of the operation is the mass of men and women who volunteer their time.

Through them, food is distributed in cities such as Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo, and, more difficult, in many small towns and communities in the vast Brazilian interior.

The network now includes 12,000 Catholic distribution centers that reach two million persons and 3,200 protestant centers that reach half a million.

'Lost Scout' Finds Way To Viet Nam

MT. KATAHDIN, Maine (AP)—Twenty-five years ago today a 12-year-old Boy Scout from Rye, N.Y., disappeared near the fog-shrouded summit of Mt. Katahdin.

Nine days later, Donn Fendler stumbled out of the wilderness nearly naked, half starved, scratched, bruised and insect-bitten.

Fendler's stamina and cool-headedness won the nation's praise in 1939.

On that July 17, while hiking with his father, Donald, and twin brother, Ryan, Donn tried a short cut and became lost.

The largest—up to then—search party ever organized in New England spent day after day on the mountain's barren crags. At the end of a week, hope was virtually gone. The boy had no food and was thinly clad.

But on July 25, the exhausted Donn reached the shore of the Penobscot River's east branch 35 miles from the mountain.

His faint cries were heard by Nelson McMoarn, who canoeed across from his sporting camp.

To newsmen, Donn related his story: "When he realized he was lost, I shouted but got no reply. I tried to find north but couldn't. After that it was just a case of going on and looking for any trail or landmark that I might run across."

"I found an old burlap bag hanging to a tree and made myself a sleeping bag. I crawled into it each night and pulled my shirt over my head and in that way was able to have a good sleep."

He lived on strawberries, wintergreen and water from stagnant pools.

"The nights were so dark and cold. I could hear the queerest noises. I thought a lot about bears. And then one day I saw two. I was scared and I guess they were as scared as I, because when I ran away they ran the other way."

Finally, Donn came to a brook. From his scout training he knew that if he followed it, he'd eventually come to a river. As he hiked along he found a

Ann Landers Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the letter from the woman who signed her letter "Exaggerated Grief?". She was criticizing a friend who fell apart at the funeral service of her husband. The writer hinted that the widow might be a candidate for an Academy Award, since her husband had been ill for a long time and his death came as no surprise.

Your answer seemed to support the mourner. You said, "The death of a loved one—expected or not—can be a traumatic experience." Candidly, Ann, I was surprised at the answer. Highly civilized, cultured, well-educated individuals are in control of themselves at all times. The more primitive the people, the noisier the funeral.

I believe in the therapeutic value of tears. But the shedding of tears should be private. Public exhibition of grief is a sign of ignorance and weakness.—FROM IOWA.

Dear Iowa: How wonderful if all of us could be in perfect control of our emotions at all times. Humans—since we are human—cannot always achieve this level of perfection. Even machines have been known to break down occasionally.

The notion that only the weak and ignorant shed tears in public indicates such a lack of compassion that I would not dignify the observation by commenting further.

Dear Ann Landers: I know you are against mixed marriages. I wish you would also come out against marriage between people of different political parties. I think it would help reduce telephone line. The line led him to the east branch.

After a few days' rest in a Bangor Hospital, Donn had a hero's welcome.

Later he was a guest of President Franklin D. Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N.Y., and the two exchanged autographs.

Donn became a Seabee in World War II. After graduation from the University of Georgia, he elected to make the Army his career.

Today Maj. Donn C. Fendler is in another rough spot. He is a special forces advisor in South Viet Nam, on his second tour of duty in that war-torn nation. As a specialist in guerrilla warfare, the 37-year-old graying father of four again risks his life daily.

the staggering divorce rate in this country.

I married a Republican. He tells me I would vote for a ring-tailed monkey if he ran on the Democratic ticket. My husband insists that although he is a registered Republican he votes for the man and not the party.

Something is wrong with this approach to politics but I can't put it into words. Can you?—POLLS APART.

Dear Polls: Many strong party members believe if the party is to be preserved they must support the party, no matter who the candidate. This old-fashioned machine-type approach is losing out, and it's a good thing. The voter who refuses to support his party's poor candidate is a healthy influence on BOTH parties.

The notion that any second-rater can be crammed down the voter's throat as long as he is on the "right" ticket should be knocked in the head.

Dear Ann Landers: My mother-in-law minds her own business, my kids don't give me any lip and the neighbors keep their dog off our property. So what am I writing about? My problem deals with business ethics and I need your advice.

In our state a law prohibits the sale of cigarettes to anyone under 18. We own a small neighborhood store. Occasionally kids come in with notes from their mothers asking us to sell them cigarettes. I tell them I'm sorry but I can't do it.

This makes the mothers mad and I have lost some good customers because of it. They then send the children to the chain store on the corner where they can get what they want.

My wife says I should stop being a simpleton. What do you say?—ARGUE ARGUE ARGUE

Dear Argue: It is unfair of people to ask you to break the law and then take their business elsewhere because you refuse.

The next time a mother sends her child in for cigarettes, phone her and read this column. Maybe she'll be mad at both of us but it's worth the try.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Protest I24 Routing As 'Political'

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP)—Southeast Missourians protested to President Johnson Thursday that routing of Interstate Highway 24 is a political move not in the interests of taxpayers or motorists.

Officials in Cape Girardeau, Scott City, Illinois and Jackson sent telegrams to the president saying the highway should cross the Mississippi River south of Scott City and connect with Interstate Highway 55 near Cape Girardeau.

That route was recommended in an independent survey made by Wilbur Smith and Associates, a firm hired by the four states through which the highway will run.

However, Governors John Dalton of Missouri, Otto Kerner of Illinois, Frank Clements of Tennessee and Edward Brethitt Jr. of Kentucky want the highway to cross the river at Caruthersville, Mo., and connect with Interstate 55 near Hayti, Mo.

The governors discussed the matter with President Johnson Thursday.

The telegrams charged the route proposed by the governors would be for political rather than sound engineering reasons.

They said it "would cost the taxpayers and the traveling public much more and would pose engineering problems which will be almost impossible to overcome."

GOP's Greatest Challenge

Like John F. Kennedy in 1960, whose methods he frankly copied, Barry Goldwater captured his party's standard by way of competing in the primaries and wooing the party professionals. The technique gave him a smashing first-ballot victory at the convention.

Now that history has repeated itself to that extent, future presidential aspirants will ignore this dual approach only at their peril.

The tactics of Goldwater's nomination drive, however, particularly in its latter days, are involved in the two new questions:

- "What, really, does Goldwater propose for the United States?"
- "Whither now the GOP?"

Barry Goldwater can be depended upon to speak out now, and with great force. Yet his task of arousing the electorate may not be an easy one.

On the domestic side, the steady upward trend of the economy shows no signs of faltering. The challenger, always at a disadvantage against an incumbent, is even more so in times of general prosperity.

The peripheral issues — federal government growth and waste, Medicare, antipoverty legislation, aid to education, states' rights, the Supreme Court — simply do not seem to engage the life-and-death emotions of the majority of the people in 1964. One must see what effect these issues will have in November.

Only civil rights could perhaps reach the proportions of an inflamed issue, and neither Goldwater nor President Johnson desires that.

As for the GOP, the subject of the second question, the salient fact is that Goldwater and the conservatives seem likely to control the party machinery for the next four years, regardless of the outcome in November.

Notwithstanding his victory in the California primary, Goldwater, opposing Republicans charged, was not a majority candidate, did not represent the "mainstream" of Republican thinking.

It is one of the strengths of the American party system that those who tried to "stop Goldwater" will now, in the main, unite behind him. But a basic schism remains, one that could come into full bloom following a serious defeat in November.

Republicans today are outnumbered two to one in the Senate, three to two in the House. Only 16 state governors are Republican. The party has held the White House in only eight of the past 32 years, has controlled Congress in only four of those years.

Can this generation-long record be reversed by an uncompromising and clear-cut return to what Goldwater considers the true mission of Republicanism?

A loss at the polls could mean the continued eclipse of the Republican Party unto the fourth and fifth decade, if not, as many direly predict, lead to its breakup.

A Goldwater win, however, could signal the greatest change in national direction since Andrew Jackson brought backwoods democracy to Washington.

The import of the 1964 election begins to loom impressively.

GOP Opponents' Wives Stay Friendly

By DREW PEARSON

SAN FRANCISCO—While Governor Scranton and Senator Goldwater were slugging it out for the Presidential nomination, their wives were quietly trying to keep peace between the two families.

Mrs. Scranton made the first overture by sending Mrs. Goldwater a huge basket of golden chrysanthemums. Later they bumped into each other at a ladies' function and exchanged cordial greetings.

They made it clear that they weren't going to let the bitterness of the convention battle break up their personal friendship, which dates back to Scranton's days as a congressman when he served in Goldwater's Air Force Reserve squadron on Capitol Hill.

Partial Victory for Hoffa

Jimmy Hoffa won part of the battle to get the Republican Party to investigate Attorney General Bobby Kennedy who has made it almost his No. 1 business to "get Hoffa."

Using smart teamster lobbyist Sid Zagari, Hoffa was able to get into the Republican platform a provision for the investigation of the Justice Department, though it did not specify Bobby Kennedy by name.

Hoffa, incidentally, has been a lifelong Republican, has battled against Democratic candidates in Michigan, and when he came up before the Senate Rackets Committee for investigation, was given friendly questions by Senators Goldwater and Karl P. Mundt of South Dakota.

After the plan for probing the Justice Department was inserted in the GOP platform, intermediaries claiming to represent Sen. Goldwater approached Zagari, asking for Hoffa's support. They wanted to talk to Hoffa direct.

Hoffa sent word back that he wasn't interested at the moment, though if President Johnson chose Bobby Kennedy as his running-mate, he would be. The inference was that he would then support Goldwater.

Gentlemen Campaign for Lady Those few scattered votes for Senator Margaret Chase Smith outside her own Maine delegation were quietly lined up for her by three chivalrous Senate colleagues.

Senators John Williams of Delaware, Frank Carlson of Kansas, and George Aiken of Vermont decided it would be a shame for Mrs. Smith not to get a few courtesy votes after her ladylike campaign for President.

Unknown to her, they made a few quiet calls to delegates and persuaded them to cast their first complimentary ballot for the lady from Maine.

Convention Postscripts

A messenger from Scranton headquarters tried to deliver to the Illinois delegation 35,000 letters from Illinois voters urging Governor Scranton's nomination for President. But the Illinois delegation, refused to accept the mail. . . . Some of the ladies, who attended the Republican Convention, plan to raise a cry of discrimination against New Hampshire. They complain that New Hampshire has never elected a woman delegate. . . . Civil rights became such an issue at the convention that the National Broadcasting Company established a special civil rights office to specialize in this phase of convention news. . . . Governor William Scranton has given his wife public credit for finally persuading him to run for President. Mrs. Scranton confided to a group of ladies that all she said to the governor was, "Well, why don't you run." . . . The San Francisco police did a remarkably efficient job of policing the city. Despite all the agitators and crackpots attracted by the convention, only four arrests were made in San Francisco on the Saturday night before the big doings. Credit belongs to police chief Tom Cahill.

Voters to Have Clear Cut Choice

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Republican party under conservative Sen. Barry Goldwater now begins a presidential campaign that is unique in the 20th century and will be remembered for generations.

The four-day convention that made Goldwater the party's candidate against the Democrats' President Johnson was dull because his selection was a foregone conclusion. But the implications are profound.

This 1964 campaign will be vastly different from the kind the Republicans have waged for decades. Previous ones hardly did more than urge restraint on the expansion of federal power and programs.

But Goldwater wants to return to some aspects of the past. In his acceptance speech Thursday night he said "we must and we shall return to the proven ways—not only because they are old but because they are true."

For example, Although Democrats and Republicans agreed in the Employment Act of 1946 that the government has a responsibility for the general welfare, Goldwater has said it must withdraw from social welfare programs.

He did not necessarily budge from that position Thursday night when he said, "we must assure a society here which, while never abandoning the needy or forsaking the helpless, nurtures incentives and opportunities for the creative and the productive."

And, as he has said before, he would diminish both the role and the power of the federal government. He said:

"We Republicans define government's role, where needed, at many levels, preferably the one close to the people involved: Our towns and cities, then our counties and states, and only then the national government."

"That is the ladder of liberty built by decentralized power. On it also we must have balance between branches of government on every level."

Never once in his speech did he say a word about what he thinks should be done on civil rights for Negroes although, because of his vote last month against the Johnson-sponsored civil rights bill, this will be a major and perhaps blazing issue of the campaign.

It is hard to believe this will not be one of the roughest campaigns in this century—perhaps the toughest.

Less than two weeks ago Goldwater said one of the main issues of the campaign would be the "scandal hanging over the White House."

Two nights ago, discussing Johnson's role in civil rights, Goldwater called him a faker and a phony.

Thursday night he said "our people have been given bread and circuses, spectacles and even scandals." And he talked of "corruption in our highest offices."

At this moment it is impossible to know how much appeal Goldwater will have to the masses of voters, or even to liberal Republicans, although it seems clear he will need all the Republican support he can get.

If he loses, particularly if he loses badly, Republican power in this country will probably be shattered for years. If he wins, the country will have to reverse its course and take a sharp turn to the right.

Then a whole new evaluation of the government's role at home and its foreign policies would begin.

In the past, at least back to 1940, the two parties have looked pretty much like twins, except for semantic hair-splitting on issues that looked more synthetic than real.

Thus for years voters have not been given a clear choice between liberal and highly conservative parties.

They'll get that chance this year.

The Mature Parent

Why Doesn't He Obey?

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: When I tell my 5-year-old boy not to do something, he spites me by doing something else worse. He waits until I am feeding his baby sister to climb up on our staircase baluster. When I tell him to get down, he runs out the front door into the street though he has been told never to do this because of cars. He behaves better after a spanking by his father but behaves worse after I hit him.

ANSWER: Next time he insists on disobeying you, stop whatever it is you're doing. If you're feeding the baby, stop and put her in her crib. Attend to your son. If he has run away, chase him until you catch him. Don't give up until you catch him. If you have to, sit on him until he stops kicking and flailing. Don't hurt him. Use your greater strength to end the disobedient action and to immobilize him. When the fight goes out of him, let him go. Say, "All right. I can run as fast as you can. Don't disobey me again."

He is trying to force you to take this controlling action.

You've told him that it's dangerous to climb up on the staircase baluster. You've told him that if he runs out into the street, he may get hit by a car. Yet you have not used your physical strength to stop these perilous performances. You've just "told" him to stop them. What's he to make of your talk that you haven't reinforced by action? Not much.

He is trying to force you to put an end to his perilous performances by action. He wants to find out whether you are willing to risk hurt by his kicks and struggles to protect him against the hurts you have told him he'll get if he falls off the baluster or is hit by a car.

He disobeys you in the hope that his dangerous actions will galvanize you into taking the protective control that will assure him that his safety is more important to you than hurt by his kicking arms and legs.

He is not trying to "spite" you by his disobedience. He is using it to test your affection for him.

I hope that you can believe this. Because if you can, you also begin to appreciate its value to him. At present, it's your jealous view that your husband's affection is the only valuable one to your little boy. This is your problem.

You so belittle your affection's value to him that you can't see how he exposes himself to dangers in order to force you to give him some real evidence of it. If you can believe in its value to him, you may be able to start proving it to him.

Stop talking. Move in on his disobedience.

Polly's Pointers

Save Invitation Envelopes

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR POLLY:—Do not throw away those plain inside envelopes that weeding and graduation invitations come in. They are handy as extra envelopes for gift cards, storing seeds through the winter or sending your hints to Polly as I did. All they need is a little glue or paste on the flap for sealing.—DOT

DEAR POLLY—I have a different idea for framing and matting pictures than the one recently sent in by a woman reader. I'm an art student who does all his own framing.

Mark off the measurements for the part of the mat you wish to remove. Take a metal straight edge or a ruler with a metal edge and a single edge razor blade. Tilt the ruler so it makes a bevel (slant) towards the designated line. Press hard and make several cuts with the blade. The center piece will fall out. Practice produces a professional book.

If the print to be framed is smaller than the size of the size of the glass, a drop or two of mucilage will hold it in the proper position to the back of the mat. Next, pad up the back with corrugated cardboard or your husband's shirt cardboard until about even with the frame.

Then put in the nails, brads or glazier's points to hold it. Take some stiff glue and go around the back of the frame and cover with brown wrapping paper. This will keep the picture dust free.

Be sure to wipe off any excess glue with a damp cloth and trim the paper edges neatly. If you have any name and address stickers, put one on the back and anyone will think you are a pro.—JOHN

DEAR POLLY—Save rumpled but clean paper napkins after a meal and use them to wipe off the top of the refrigerator and stove. They really pick up that greasy film and when polishing day comes it is not half the work.

When I do a room over from scratch, I buy a picture I really like. This is usually a good landscape print or a still life which will be hung in the room. Using the colors in the picture as a guide I choose the paint, rug, upholstery and drapery fabrics. The plan has never failed to give me a lovely color scheme for a room and a lot of fun while decorating.—DOROTHY

GIRLS—Dorothy has a good thought but it is not always necessary to buy a new picture. Build the room around one you may already own and love. Even a short length of beautiful fabric could be used as a guide and then framed, back of glass, to hang in the finished room.—POLLY

School and You

I. Q. Isn't Everything

By SUSAN LIGHT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

You thought your child was bright. But you've just found out that he's no brain, according to his I.Q. score. In fact, he's just an average, run-of-the-mill youngster where gray matter is concerned.

So?

Naturally, no one considers a high I.Q. a handicap, but neither is it a guarantee of scholastic success. If intelligence were the all-important factor in making good grades, no brainy child would fail. And no fast starter would fizzle out into mediocrity.

While failure is not typical of bright children in general, it occurs often enough to convince educators that it takes more than intelligence to make a good student.

There are many cases in which achievement in school seems to have little relationship to the level of intelligence. Children of average ability may well reach the top of their classes.

The whole story of scholastic ability simply cannot be told by a test score. Also, the detection of egghed tendencies doesn't necessarily imply their effective use. The idea that if a child is bright enough he can do anything is grossly oversimplified.

Some students possess qualities beyond intelligence that enable them to do considerably more with the gray matter they have. These children have an inner energy and drive that far outweighs any other intellectual shortcomings. They set high standards for themselves instead of being satisfied with merely getting by.

They have faith in themselves, firmly grounded in self-discipline, courage, and the encouragement and inspiration of their parents and teachers. With this positive attitude, they can push ahead even when they are a little afraid.

Such children learn readily because they want to learn so badly. They may have to study harder than some of their classmates, but they usually like to study. They win the respect and liking of their teachers, which is half the battle in achieving scholastic success.

If your child has what it takes to succeed in school—the intangible qualities that can't be measured objectively—you needn't be overly concerned about a mere test score. And chances are, those same qualities will assure success, too, in whatever career he may eventually follow.

Be thankful for such a child!

Varied Labels for Barry By People Who Know Him

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A friend once said of Barry Goldwater: "He does everything the hard way. In baseball he even batted crosshanded."

Politics didn't change Goldwater.

After his election to the Senate in 1952 it didn't take him long to raise the nation's blood pressure.

Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers Union, said publicly: "Goldwater is the nation's No. 1 political fanatic, labor baiter and peddler of class hatred."

A high ranking military commander once said privately: "Barry Goldwater may be the only man who can lead this nation out of the mess in which it is trapped."

Before he had completed his first Senate term, Goldwater had become the recognized leader of the conservative cause.

He is 6 feet, weighs an unchanging 185, has curly salt-and-pepper hair, a jutting jaw and an outdoorsman's tan.

He has expensive tastes, as proven by his home atop a hill overlooking Phoenix, equipped with electronic gadgets.

Next to his desk is a VHF radio that provides weather reports. He can press a button and a movie screen rolls down from the ceiling of the study. His lawn-sprinkler system is electronically operated and the sound of a miniature waterfall in his garden is piped over his hi-fi system. One bathroom is papered with snapshots taken by the senator.

How was this man created? The past holds some answers.

His grandfather, Michael Goldwasser, one of 22 children, escaped the horrors of the ghettos and oppressive anti-Semitic laws of his native Konin, Poland, in 1848.

World crop of apples exceeds 700 million bushels annually, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Barry Charts Course For Campaign

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater, charting a presidential campaign course for the Republican party he now commands, puts his men at the helm today after a triumphant call to the conservative cause.

Goldwater's acceptance address at the GOP national convention Thursday night was an outline of the tenets he proclaims, punctuated with slaps at President Johnson and the Democrats.

It won a five-minute ovation from shouting, stomping delegates. Then Goldwater and his running mate, Rep. William E. Miller of New York, stood together to take the cheers.

Today, Goldwater goes to work to shape the Republican organization that will guide his campaign for the White House. He will go before the new Republican National Committee—an organization he has designed to run the campaign ahead.

And the committee will ratify his choice of 36-year-old Dean Burch, a Tucson, Ariz., attorney, as its new chairman. Miller had held the post.

"The whole purpose is to make this a tool for the election of Barry Goldwater," said Burch.

The party's new operating chief has been second in command of Goldwater's campaign. Denison Kitchel, the head man, said he will serve as general director of the Senator's campaign.

Vowing to battle to victory in November, Goldwater told the convention

"The good Lord raised up this mighty republic to be a home for the brave and to flourish as the land of the free—not to stagnate in the swampland of collectivism—not to cringe before the bullying of communism."

"The tide has been running against freedom," Goldwater said, and he promised to reverse it.

Goldwater said, "It is the cause of Republicanism to remind ourselves and the world that only the strong can remain free—that only the strong can keep the peace."

"I do not intend to let peace or freedom be torn from our grasp because of lack of strength or lack of will."

Mrs. Goldwater watched proudly and their two daughters wept as he claimed the nomination and declared:

"You and I are going to fight for the goodness of our land."

Outside the arena, some 500 civil rights demonstrators chanted "Barry must go." Goldwater didn't see them. He left by another exit and a police motorcade whisked him back to the Mark Hopkins Hotel.

Double Life For Co-Star Of Lucy Show

EDITOR'S NOTE—Vivian Vance, the Ethel Mertz of "I Love Lucy" and Vivian Bagley of "The Lucy Show," writes, for vacationing Cynthia Lowry, about the air traveler.

By VIVIAN VANCE
Written for Associated Press
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—When "The Lucy Show" started in the summer of 1962 I started commuting between my home in Connecticut and Hollywood. I had been married just a short time and felt that with jet travel I could span those 3,000 miles easily.

I would start leading a double life. I'd be Mrs. John Dodds, Connecticut housewife, on weekends and Vivian Vance, actress, in Hollywood during the week. It has worked out just great.

The schedule goes like this. My husband drives me to New York's Kennedy Airport Sunday night or Monday morning, depending on the time I am due on the set at Desilu Studios. It takes about an hour from my farmhouse in Stamford to the airport. In 3 hours and 40 minutes, allowing for the time difference, I am at International Airport in Los Angeles, where my "Girl Friday," Renita Reachi, meets me and in no time I am at the Beverly Hills Hotel.

On Thursday nights, after "The Lucy Show" has been filmed before an audience, Renita drives me out to the airport, where I board the 11 p.m. jet and soon I am in New York. John, who is a literary agent, meets me, and I start a wonderful weekend of keeping house, shopping in the village, cooking special dishes and entertaining our friends.

In the two years, I've picked up a few plane peevess. Recently my seat partner was a man who smoked cigars incessantly during the five-hour flight to New York. There seems to be a tendency in air travel to let passengers smoke whenever, wherever and as long as they wish. I'm going to write to the president of the airlines suggesting that a note be included in their regular pamphlet pointing out this discourtesy.

Most jet travelers are considerate, however. Most passengers recognize me, but they seldom speak to me. Sometimes before landing, I am asked for an autograph with the explanation that the seeker did not want to bother me because I was resting.

I have learned to travel light and to wear comfortable clothes. When I started, I was lugging travel bags, carrying a coat and even had our poodle in a crate. Now I literally travel in a paper bag, and wear loose garments. I keep two wardrobes, one at home and one in Hollywood.

I have learned to relax. As soon as I board I settle in my seat, close my eyes and before I know it, I'm dozing off to sleep.

Queer Find By Pair In Mexico Lake

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Fred Propst of Auxvasse, Mo., and Jim Furness of Mexico were fishing last Sunday in Mexico's C and A Lake.

Propst snagged a branch and pulled it up to disengage the hook. On the branch were two big blobs of something or other that smelled fishy and seemed to be alive. They were jelly-like and sort of opaque and weighed about 30 pounds together.

The men took the queer find to Jim Sterner, managing editor of the Mexico Ledger. He called Denver Camden, area supervisor for the state Conservation Commission. Camden shook his head but talked it over with another conservation agent who recalled a similar find was made in Spencer Creek a few years ago.

So a Conservation Commission staffer dug through the laboratory files and came up with the results of the other investigation.

He found that the earlier

Odd Fellows, Rebekahs Hold Picnic Sunday

The Central Missouri District Association of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs will hold its annual picnic in Sedalia Sunday at the hall, 901 East 13th.

The meeting will begin with a program at 2 p.m., in which the different lodges will participate. After the program, a picnic dinner will be served.

The following officers are serving for the year: C. F. Landt, president; O. C. Blankenship, Sedalia, second vice president, picnic chairman; Elsie Dean, Holden, third vice president; Mrs. Kathryn Spillers, Sedalia, secretary.

Grand Master Dr. George Bileau, Louisiana, Mo., will give the main address.

Other officials will attend, including Mrs. Pauline Adams, president of Rebekah Assembly of Missouri. The public may attend the meeting.

blobs were identified as pectinella, a primitive animal form sometimes called moss animals. Actually the blobs are colonies of many moss animals and they occur in different species in both salt and fresh water, the commission report said.

People In The News

CASTEL GONDOLFO, Italy (AP)—Pope Paul VI is at his summer residence near Rome, but he also took along "mountains" of work in preparation for the next session of the Ecumenical Council.

Hundreds of townspeople greeted his arrival Wednesday night. He thanked them and said: "I have come to rest physically, but I have much to do because of the third council session. I have mountains of papers and books to go through."

NEW YORK (AP)—Norman Thomas, six times the Socialist party candidate for president, calls the Republican nomination of Sen. Barry Goldwater for president and the party's platform "a prescription for World War III."

Thomas, 79, made the remarks to newsmen as he marched Wednesday with pickets protesting a multi-lateral nuclear fleet. The demonstration was at a pier where a guided-missile destroyer with a multi-national crew is moored.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Comedian Bob Hope is going in as a pinch-hitter for a senator at a baseball game. A U.S. senator, that is, not one of Washington's. The senator is Edward Kennedy, Democrat of Massachusetts. Hope said he plans to substitute for him at a fund-raising appearance Friday between games of a Pittsburgh - at-Milwaukee doubleheader.

Crime Leader Claims Poverty Stalks Mansion

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Frank (Buster) Wortman, southern Illinois crime boss, told a court Wednesday he barely had enough money to buy food. Wortman made the statement in a hearing on a separate maintenance suit filed by his wife, Sylvia, in May. Mrs. Wortman said she and her husband had been separated since April 22.

Associate Circuit Judge Alvin Maeys took the case under advisement.

Mrs. Wortman charged the reputed representative of a national crime syndicate with cruelty. Her attorney, Maurice E. Bone, asked that Wortman give her separate maintenance of $500 a month.

Sam E. Cohn, Wortman's attorney, told the court he believed $25 a month would be enough. Cohn said Wortman's income is only about $200 a month.

Ku Klux Klan Hinge Growth To New Law

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Leaders of the Ku Klux Klan claim growing membership in their invisible empire because of white resentment to the civil rights law.

"There has been a tremendous reaction to the civil rights bill and this is bringing about a swelling of Klan membership," says Imperial Wizard Robert M. Shelton Jr., Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Shelton, thin and soft-spoken, has preached "ballots not bullets" in the past several years, trying to rebuild the old Klan with a new nonviolent image.

A salesman, he is titular head of the United Klans of America Inc., Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. This group has following in much of the South.

There is no possible way of checking Klan claims or their strength, since rank-and-file members are anonymous and their leaders refuse to divulge any figures or identities.

The robed order, once known for its night-riding terrorism, appears strongest in parts of Alabama, Mississippi and Florida. The Klan apparently has been gaining in Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana.

Elsewhere in the South there is little outward indication of a resurgence of the Klan.

Other segregationist groups have cut into the Klan's field since the U.S. Supreme Court order against segregated public schools 10 years ago.

Klan leaders openly supported former Gov. John Patterson in his campaign and Shelton said, "We elected two governors"—a reference to Patterson and his successor, Gov. George C. Wallace. Neither man repudiated the Klan.

Shelton made an inspection of the Philadelphia, Miss., area after the disappearance of three civil rights workers. He said the disappearance was a hoax and added, "My people will continue the investigation."

The Klan's official line on racial issues is set down in a leaflet distributed by Shelton's organization.

"The Knights of the Ku Klux Klan is not the enemy of the Negro," it reads. "We hold it is obligatory upon the Negro race and upon all other colored races in America to recognize that they are living in the land of the white race by courtesy of the white race."

"They must not lose sight of the fact that the white race is the ruling race by right of inheritance and that it does not intend to surrender this right or

Actor Who Makes Millions Celebrates a $7.50 Raise

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Paul Newman, who can earn up to a million dollars in a single movie, got a $7.50-a-week raise on Broadway the other day.

"It brought my take-home pay to $103.50," said Paul, celebrating over a can of beer in his dressing room.

He and his wife, Joanne Woodward, are appearing in a limited engagement in a new comedy by James Costigan, "Baby Want a Kiss."

The play was produced by the Actors Studio Theater, and Newman and Miss Woodward took their roles as a gesture of loyalty to the Actors Studio and the part it played in furthering their careers.

"We were fortunate we could take six months out of our lives to do this," said Paul.

The handsome, curly haired actor, who spent three years riding Navy torpedo planes as a radioman in World War II, seems to have taken the place of Clark Gable as a symbol of to compromise it with any other race—black, yellow or brown."

The leaflet also says the Klan is "strictly law abiding... Every member is sworn to uphold the law, and any member violating this oath would be banished forever from this organization."

Shelton said he agreed with Negro leaders that it would be "a hot summer."

"I think this is going to bring about a lot of bloodshed," he said. "The American people are not going to accept the civil wrongs bill. I don't think it can be enforced."

Does this mean the Klan will fight with violence?

"Who's causing the violence?" Shelton retorted. "The Negroes are inciting violence. They are to blame."

Lawsuits To Test New Bill

Federal Court Will Hear Two Test Cases

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Three federal judges will take up Friday the nation's first court challenge of the sweeping Civil Rights Act signed into law only 14 days ago.

Two separate lawsuits testing the historic legislation are set for hearing by Judge Elbert P. Tuttle, presiding judge of the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals, and District Court Judges Frank A. Hooper and Lewis R. Morgan.

First on the docket is a complaint by the Heart of Atlanta Motel Corp., seeking an injunction against Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy's enforcing the law and $11 million in damages from the federal government.

Moreton Rolleston, the corporation president and an attorney, contends in his suit that the law is unconstitutional. In a countersuit, the government asks an injunction forcing Rolleston to obey the law.

The second suit, docketed for Friday but likely to be delayed, seeks an injunction against a segregated restaurant. It was brought by three Negroes against restaurant owner Lester Maddox who chased the group from his place at gunpoint July 3.

Kennedy has joined with the Negroes in their suit.

Attorneys for Maddox in pleadings filed Thursday asked dismissal of the action, contending that the restaurant is not subject to the new law and that Congress had no power to enact the law under the U.S. Constitution.

Their first defense is that Maddox's place does not serve or offer to serve interstate travelers and neither does a substantial portion of its goods move in interstate commerce—conditions necessary for the law to apply.

The attorneys also asked that Maddox be stricken as a defendant and the suit be allowed only against the corporation of which he is president.

Indications are that Maddox's lawyers will challenge the appointment of a three-judge panel to hear the case. The panel was named on the government's motion.

Appeals from a three-judge court may be taken directly to the U.S. Supreme Court and since the losing side is certain to appeal, the panel appointment will mean much quicker final adjudication of the issues.

For Lunar Explorations

Project Outline By Space Agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — How will American astronauts get around after they land on the moon?

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration disclosed Thursday it is thinking of:

—A mobile laboratory—MOLAB—for the men to work in shirtsleeves, with an air-locked exit that would permit the explorers to go out in space suits to gather soil and rock samples.

—A "lunar hopper," a helicopter-device for short flights to sites that cannot be reached on foot or by MOLAB.

Then—on to Mars or other planets.

NASA said it has invested more than $7 million on studies of 32 projects that might be undertaken after Apollo spacecraft have landed men on the moon. NASA still hopes to achieve the first such landing within this decade.

Parallel studies of a mobile moon laboratory, or MOLAB,

Henry County Told To Hike Assessments

Henry County has been ordered by the State Tax Commission to make a 10 per cent increase in assessments on real estate and a 20 per cent increase on hogs and cattle.

The commission's order is in line with an effort being made to bring all county assessments up to a 30 per cent average. Before the increase was ordered, State Tax Commission figures listed Henry County's average at 23.82.

Benton County rates at 26.38, Johnson at 27.94 and Pettis County at 30.47.

Missouri Republicans Greet Miller

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Top Missouri Republicans welcomed Dr. William E. Miller as the choice for vice president Thursday. They predicted he would conduct a fighting campaign that would help the party in Missouri.

One of the candidates, Jean Paul Bradshaw of Springfield, said if the campaign is conducted along the lines of the platform, "we're on high ground in Missouri."

Bradshaw is expected to win the GOP nomination for U.S. senator and a chance to contest with Democratic Sen. Stuart Symington in November. He was the Republican nominee for governor in 1944 but lost to Democrat Phil M. Donnelly by 30,000 votes.

Both co-chairmen of the Missouri delegation, Rep. Durward G. Hall of Springfield and Lem T. Jones of Kansas City, expressed approval of Sen. Barry Goldwater's choice of Miller as his running mate.

Both Hall and Jones attended a meeting with the new presidential nominee Thursday morning where state party leaders were assured the state party organizations will be beefed up for the campaign ahead.

Over GOP Choice

Some Editorials Express Anxiety

LONDON (AP) — Expressions of anxiety dominated foreign editorial reaction Thursday to Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater's presidential nomination. But the outcome of the Cow Palace vote was viewed in some cases with approval.

A rather general view in Western Europe's press was that the event headline writers called "Barry's bonanza" and "Goldwater's massive triumph" was a victory for reactionary elements and a setback for world peace.

The Communists were stidently anti-Goldwater. The Soviet Communist party paper Pravda said Goldwater is running on the "most reactionary, bellicose and adventurist pre-election platform in American history."

One who took an approving view of Goldwater was Jean Campbell of the independent London Evening Standard. Disagreeing with most of her British colleagues, she forecast in a dispatch from San Francisco that he could win the presidency.

"For the first time in 34 years the Republican party has fallen into the hands of the conservatives, the natural and healthy opposition for the liberal Democrats," she wrote.

"You have only to sit in this crazy Cow Palace to realize that Barry Goldwater could beat the Democrats. Why? Because in his own tart and true words he offers a choice, not an echo."

The Conservative Berlingske Aftenavis of Copenhagen said there were "some signs of hope that a presidential candidate Goldwater will not be quite the same person as Sen. Goldwater."

In white-ruled South Africa, Johannesburg's pro government Die Vaderland interpreted Goldwater's victory as "a triumph over the liberal tyranny in U.S. policy." This paper added that "The most revealing aspect of Goldwater's success was his unmasking of America's liberal mass communication media which had misrepresented his image."

The reaction in conservative, strongly anti-Communist Spain was mixed. Several Spanish government officials expressed delight at the nomination. One said: "Now we will see a real live, hard-hitting campaign in the States."

In Buenos Aires, the independent, Conservative La Nacion said "The true conservatives — there is no doubt about it — will vote for him with more enthusiasm than for any of his (Republican) adversaries." It forecast, however, that he will lose the election and Republican governors, mayors and legislators "will go down with him."

Misgivings about Goldwater, his publicized views on diplomatic and military policies were expressed in Cairo where African leaders were gathered for a continental summit conference. Some expressed fear that Goldwater could force the United States back to isolation and impede East-West rapprochement.

In India, spokesmen for some political parties viewed Goldwater's victory as hardly a happy sign for easing world tensions. The governing Congress party was silent.

The Communists were stidently anti-Goldwater. The Soviet Communist party paper Pravda said Goldwater is running on the "most reactionary, bellicose and adventurist pre-election platform in American history."

Leaders May Be Locked In Disagreement

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. and South Vietnamese leaders appear to be locked in a disagreement. The outcome could mean the difference between a general war in Asia and a continuation of the current low key fighting in South Viet Nam.

Saigon says regular North Vietnamese troops have begun coming into the South, and are fighting as units against Saigon troops. The United States says it isn't so.

Both allies are agreed that a real North Vietnamese offensive against the South would justify an immediate extension of the war into North Viet Nam. This, in turn, could lead to Chinese Communist involvement.

On Tuesday afternoon, the South Vietnamese foreign minister and a top ranking U.S. military spokesman held simultaneous news conferences in different parts of Saigon.

Foreign Minister Phan Huy Quat said the conflict with Red guerrillas is marked "by violent fighting by entire units of soldiers coming from North Viet Nam."

The U.S. spokesman said there were no indications of the presence of any regular North Vietnamese units on South Vietnamese soil.

U.S. intelligence men agree that many so-called volunteers from the North Vietnamese army have been sent south over the years to fill in leadership gaps for the Viet Cong guerrillas. This is substantially different, they say, from coming down in combat units.

Goldwater Taps Miller To Run For Vice-Presidency

Republicans Halt Fights In Order To Finish Work

COW PALACE, San Francisco (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater capped a mighty victory in the Republican presidential race Thursday by tapping Rep. William E. Miller of New York to battle by his side against the Democrats in November.

Republicans all but abandoned battling among themselves, chanted cries for harmony, and swarmed into their national convention for final formalities: the nomination of Miller for the vice presidency and the acceptance speeches of the team that will take on President Johnson in the onrushing political wars.

Miller, 50, is a wiry, hard-slugging politician who has been chairman of the Republican National Committee for three years. He rawhides the opposition every chance he gets.

Goldwater selected the No. 2 man on his own campaign staff, Dean Burch, to replace Miller as national chairman. Burch, 36, is a lawyer from Tucson, in Goldwater's home state of Arizona.

The director of the campaign that got Goldwater the presidential nomination Wednesday night, Denison Kitchel, announced the Burch selection.

This was about the only surprise of the whole convention—a convention that reacted to Goldwater's beckoning all the way.

At the climax, the conservative Arizona senator crunched out an overwhelming victory over Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania in a first and last ballot on the presidential nomination.

Gracious in defeat, Scranton appeared before delegates who finally were willing to applaud him for a change. He threw his support to Goldwater, called for GOP unity and declared that Republicans now must fight only Democrats.

Later on he hurried to Goldwater's hotel command post downtown and offered his help and congratulations in person. So did Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, a contender for the nomination until Goldwater drubbed him in the California primary.

Thursday, the Republicans were waiting olive branches and losing doves of peace all over the place.

Yet a note or two of discord sounded amid all the new-found harmony.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, New Jersey liberal, balked at a tany whole-hearted support for Goldwater, just as he balked at voting for the senator Wednesday night.

Goldwater Accepts His Nomination

COW PALACE, San Francisco (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater accepted the Republican presidential nomination Thursday night vowing to wrest the White House from Democrats he said "have distorted and lost" freedom's vision.

He counseled against Republicanism "made fuzzy and futile by unthinking labels."

"Extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice," Goldwater declared in a speech prepared for his triumphant appearance before the Republican National Convention. "Moderation in the pursuit of justice is no virtue."

"I accept your nomination with a deep sense of humility," Goldwater said. "I accept the responsibility that goes with it. I seek your continued help and guidance."

Goldwater said the task would be too great for any man who did not have with him the hearts and hands of "this great Republican party."

"I promise you that every fiber of my being is consecrated to our cause—that nothing will be lacking in the struggle that can be brought to it by enthusiasm and devotion and hard work," he said.

"Together we will win," Goldwater said.

Goldwater declared: "The good Lord raised up this

Barry Smashes GOP Machine

By J. A. DEAR

SAN FRANCISCO — (July 15) Barry Goldwater went over the top Wednesday after his name was gingerly put in nomination by Sen. Everett Dirksen in a speech that was surprisingly defensive in tone.

This crowns four years of hard work by Sen. Goldwater's conservative supporters. Their juggernaut easily smashed the feeble opposition of badly disorganized moderates and liberals who had run every GOP convention since 1936. In terms of tactics Goldwater men borrowed from the Kennedymen of 1960.

So confident were Barry's supporters that they had scant patience for Dirksen's nominating speech. He described Barry as a man of courage, conscience, competence, and loyalty, who was often half-quoted, and who has "repeatedly cast votes that have won him no applause, that have gained him nothing politically." But they did show his "blazing courage," Dirksen said.

(Goldwater voted against the Civil Rights of which Dirksen was the principal Republican architect.)

Neither Dirksen nor any of those seconding Goldwater's nomination said anything about his intelligence, or even his common sense.

The Republican platform approved by a convention that Goldwater dominated, and which therefore presumably reflects his more moderate thoughts, calls for the liberation of the Armenians and the Ukrainians, among others. Armenia once lay entire in what is now Turkish territory and now lies in territory that is part Russian and part Turkish. The Ukraine has been Russian for centuries, and before that was dominated by the Mongols.

The Civil Rights plank of the platform pledges Republicans "to help assure equal opportunity and a good education for all, while opposing federally sponsored 'inverse discrimination,' whether by the shifting of jobs, or by the abandonment of neighborhood schools, for reasons of race. . . ."

This is construed by many as a device that will enable the Goldwater candidacy to profit

Commission Approves Road Bids

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Highway Approval Commission Thursday approved $10,630,210 in highway bids covering work in 15 counties and the city of St. Louis.

Interstate projects will take the bulk of the money. Projects include:

Warren County—1.6 miles of grading, asphaltic concrete resurfacing of the east bound lane on Interstate 70 and concrete paving of ramps at the Wright City interchange and signing from Rt. H to Wright City, Millstone Construction Co. and Bangert Bros. Road Builders Inc. of St. Louis, $728,058.

New Madrid County — 16.6 miles of grading, bridging, twin concrete pavements and signing on Interstate 55 from near the Scott County line south to near New Madrid, broken into three sections with Koss Const. Co. of Des Moines getting two, totaling 11 miles for a total bid of $3,468,819, and Peter Kiewit Construction Co. of Republic the other 5.6 miles at $2,388,573.

Primary system projects included:

Cole and Callaway counties — Asphaltic concrete resurfacing of the U.S. 54-63 bridge over the Missouri at Jefferson City, Richardson and Bass Construction Co. of Mt. Vernon, $16,102.

Barry County — 6.4 miles of seal coat surfacing on Rt. 37 from southwest of Cassville southwesterly, Blevins Asphalt Co. of Mt. Vernon, $6,743.

Barton County — 18 miles of seal coat surfacing on U.S. 160 from Lamar east and south to the Dade County line, Saline County Asphalt Co. Inc. of Marshall, $19,101.

Gasconade and Montgomery counties — Asphaltic concrete resurfacing of the Rt. 19 floor on the Missouri River bridge at Herman, Bridges Paving Co. of St. Louis, $12,092.

PICKETS BLOCK COW PALACE GATE — Turnstiles at one exit from San Francisco's Cow Palace are blocked by civil rights demonstrators at end of a session. They were protesting failure of the convention delegates to amend the party platform on civil rights. Delegates and spectators were able to leave through other exits. (AP Wirephoto)

Untimely Church Attendance...

A hackneyed phrase that may never become quite threadbare is often used in reference to an individual whose despicable behavior causes others to refer to him as "the meanest person in town."

This label applies to the ones who recently burglarized four Sedalia churches. The objectives were soda pop machines which were pried open, damaged and pilfered of the scanty sum of $4.40 plus $1.25 from a children's offering. Property damage was ten times that amount.

This is not the work of professionals. Even adult morons would have more sense of the profit motive, and more of a spark of shame than to rob churches.

The youths who did these jobs are not only as senseless as a stone, but they are cowards whose parents ought to warm their bare bottoms with more than the slap of an open hand. Their names are known to their playmates and very likely some parents know who the culprits are. There ought to be some collaboration among them all for a showdown on this matter of breaking into and robbing churches.

If these kids have such an unrestrained impulse to steal why don't they do it the hard way, take the thrilling chance of being caught robbing a store and making a name for themselves on the juvenile record?

Why be a cheap chicken, disturbing the sanctity of Sedalia churches just to obtain from four of them the measly sum of $5.65?

If youngsters are so desperate for money there is a lot more dignity to the act of begging from adults than there is to robbing churches.

Better the lads go to church on Sunday and do a little praying — accompanied by their parents, of course.

South Should Have Time To Adjust

(Editor's Note—Drew Pearson's column today takes the form of a letter to Dick Gregory, the Negro comedian, who has been active in civil rights battle.)

Washington, D.C.
July 10, 1964

Dear Dick Gregory:

You and I talked last spring about the progress of Negro rights and your warning of the long, hot summer of discontent which lay ahead. We're now in the middle of that summer.

In the middle of another summer, July 21, 1964, I stood on the steps of the state capitol in Atlanta to deliver a radio broadcast in defiance of the KKK, which had dared me to come to Georgia.

I cite this because I am not unsympathetic to the cause of Negro justice and have not flinched from danger in promoting it. The American Broadcasting Company at that time took out $1,000,000 worth of insurance on my life.

But I would earnestly disagree with you that now is a time to risk lives and incite passions by sending an army of white students into Mississippi—idealistic and courageous as I am sure they are.

I say this primarily because the nation has just adopted a historic new code of fair play for all minorities and it is only fair to give the south an opportunity to live with and adjust to this new code.

I say this also because there have been changes in the south and because it is necessary to give the more enlightened leaders of the south an opportunity to lead. They should not be handicapped by outsiders whose presence incites bitterness and resentment.

The South's progress

The city of Atlanta, for instance, during the 18 years since I stood on the steps of the state capitol, has seen a wise police chief, William Jenkins, use Negro policemen on a completely integrated basis and in proportion to the racial balance of the city. It has seen Mayor William Hartsfield, now retired, pioneer race relations to a point of genuine harmony and friendship.

It has seen the people of Georgia elect a Negro to their senate, North Carolina elect a Negro to their state assembly, and the people of Louisville elect a Negro as chairman of their board of education.

And last week I saw Negroes register, eat, and sleep at the best hotels in Jackson, Miss., without incident.

True, as you told me, the Negroes have been waiting a long time—101 years—and they are tired of waiting. Most of the nation doesn't blame them. They have been overly patient.

But I would point to the speed with which better understanding has increased in recent years. To illustrate: In 1958 when the Clinton, Tenn., high school was completely destroyed by dynamite because it integrated, I undertook to raise money to rebuild

Animals Might Sue

It is becoming more obvious every day that people aren't people.

The first hint came quite a while back when scientists decided that man was descended from the monkey. While this was perhaps not too flattering, it was accepted by man with a lighthearted attempt to laugh it off. The monkeys merely ignored it.

Now, science has gone even further in aligning man with animals. It says rather flatly that human beings share basic hereditary characteristics with all other backboned animals. (There MUST be a prettier way to describe human beings than that!)

From a genetic standpoint, the scientists say, man is still most closely related to the monkey (85 to 90 per cent). But he also has a kinship to mice, rats, hamsters, guinea pigs, rabbits and cows that comes to about 20 to 25 per cent.

of the Missouri Pacific railway station at Georgetown. The property was purchased some months ago by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Steffens from Will J. Riley and now the Steffens have conveyed it to Mr. Stanley. Frank Monroe handled the transaction.

the school, but encountered fear on the part of southern leaders.

Lyndon Johnson, then senator from Texas, declined to serve on the fund-raising committee. LeRoy Collins, the ex-governor of Florida, also declined. Both were helpful in giving advice but neither wanted to be identified publicly with any fund-raising drive for the Clinton school.

Luther Hodges of North Carolina, now secretary of commerce, was the only southern governor willing to serve.

Six Years of Change

Today the Clinton school has been rebuilt, and is completely integrated, and Negro students are playing an active part in student activities.

But, more important, today the same Lyndon Johnson has signed into law the greatest document for Negro Freedom since the emancipation proclamation. Even before this, as senator from Texas, he expedited the passage of the first two civil rights bills in 87 years. Unquestionably the latest and strongest civil rights bill in history would not have passed without Johnson's masterful and courageous prodding.

The bill incidentally, will lose him more votes than it will win.

Today also the former governor of Florida, LeRoy Collins, is in charge of Community Relations for the civil rights bill and he will do a fine job.

All this has happened in six short years. In that period Lyndon Johnson has grown, LeRoy Collins has grown, but, most of all, the nation has grown.

So I repeat: Give the new civil rights law a chance. Give the wise leaders of the south a chance to live with the law, to show up the rabble rousers, the Klansmen, the Wallaces, and prove that most of the south can be a law-abiding part of the nation.

There will be pockets of resistance, of course; there will be cases of violence, but for the most part I do not think the real leaders of the south will let you down.

If you do decide to continue with "Project Mississippi," America's conscience fund will continue to offer rewards for those who become the victims of violence, as it has in the case of the three missing students in Philadelphia, Miss.

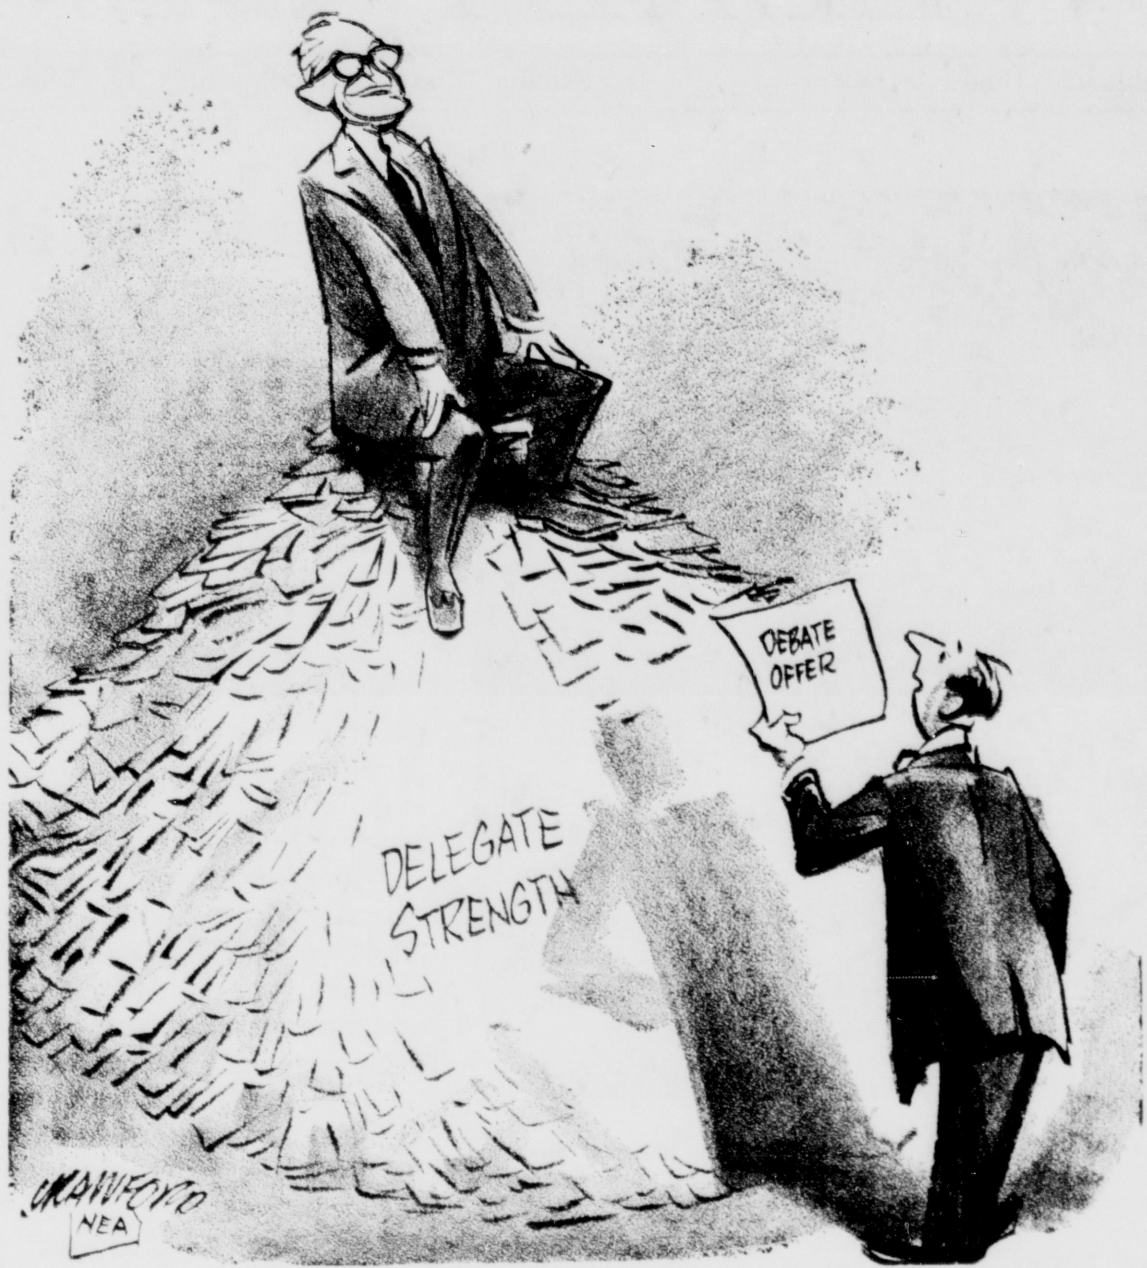

But punishing the guilty cannot restore life.

And I would suggest that there are scores of Negro communities in northern cities where the juvenile crime rate is soaring, the school drop-out problem is deplorable, and where students can serve their fellow men less spectacularly but more efficiently than in Mississippi.

Of course, if the civil rights law does not work, if I am wrong about southern leadership, then there will be plenty of time for the courage and dedication of American students to operate in the months to come.

Yours sincerely,
Drew Pearson

"Gov. Scranton Wants You to Explain Your Position!"

Veep Nominees Issue At Convention

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — As noisy as the Fourth of July but flat as a board.

As of now that's how the two big political conventions look. The Republicans' in San Francisco next week and the Democrats' starting Aug. 24 in Atlantic City.

Stories out of San Francisco

this week indicate Sen. Barry Goldwater has the presidential nomination cinched — probably on the first ballot—and that his opponent, Pennsylvania's Gov. William W. Scranton, is just treading air.

Since President Johnson's nomination by the Democrats is a foregone conclusion, the steam is out of their gathering before it begins.

If all this holds true the only problem will be over the vice presidential nominees, and even that will probably be cut and dried.

Johnson will do the deciding on his running-mate. So there won't be excitement over that, either, unless he keeps his choice for No. 2 man secret until the last minute. That wouldn't mean a fight, just a surprise.

Scranton apparently has been making unphenomenal progress in his search for delegates to stop Goldwater. If the delegates already credited to Goldwater stick with him, a first ballot nomination will be his.

Here again there could be a squabble over the vice presidential selection, but probably not. Goldwater, if he does have his own nomination locked up, can do his own choosing on the No. 2 man.

Nevertheless, the conventions will be one of the big shows of the year. The public interest will be acute. Most of the speeches probably will be unbelievably dull. And the noise will be awful.

K's been some years since there was any real struggle at both Democratic and Republican conventions in one season.

In 1960 John F. Kennedy had some trouble from Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson. But he squeaked that and took Johnson to be his vice presidential partner. At that year's Republican convention all opposition to the nomination of Vice President Richard M. Nixon was gone before the delegates got together.

In 1956 the Republican convention was a mere routine in nominating President Dwight D. Eisenhower for a second term, and a second one for Vice President Nixon. That same year a number of Democrats' names were put in nomination at their meeting.

But W. Averell Harriman, who had been boomed by former President Harry Truman as the man for the job, got knocked off by Adlai E. Stevenson who then ran for a second time against Eisenhower and just as unsuccessfully.

Sen. Estes Kefauver, who had worked hard for the No. 1 spot accepted the No. 2 one on the ticket with Stevenson.

The 1952 Democratic convention was a struggle for a while —there was nothing sewed up before it began — but Stevenson won on the third ballot after his two main opponents, Harriman and Kefauver, dropped out. Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama was the vice presidential nominee.

That year the Republicans made their convention a lulu. The struggle was between Gen. Eisenhower and Sen. Robert A. Taft. But Taft, who had worked long and hard for Republicans, didn't have Eisenhower's glamor.

A Hard Look at Barry's Chances If He Wins the Nod

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — In the final struggle for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination, some politicians are counting possible electoral votes as carefully as they tot up delegate votes.

With Sen. Barry Goldwater so strongly fixed that he can now lose the nomination only by stumbling badly or by suffering an improbable raid on his delegates by Pennsylvania's William W. Scranton, a big question is:

How does Goldwater propose to put together an electoral victory over President Lyndon Johnson in November?

It will require 270 electoral votes to win the presidency. In the days before Kennedy's assassination, Goldwater backers used to circulate a tally sheet suggesting that Barry could roll up 311, or 41 more than needed. They no longer talk in such terms.

Their old total included, of course, all 128 electoral votes for the 11-state Old South. But today it is the Old Lyndon South, and only the most optimistic Goldwater men seriously talk of winning more than a handful of southern states.

Even if Goldwater managed to win all but Johnson's Texas (25 votes), Georgia (12), which never has gone Republican, and North Carolina (13) he would pull only 78 from that territory.

The senator is admittedly strong in the 8-state mountain area but the total electoral votes there is a meager 33. And Johnson is also strong in this region and might well break off at least half that total. In 1960 Kennedy picked up New Mexico and Nevada.

The pre-assassination Goldwater tally sheet showed the senator winning only Ohio (26) and Illinois (26) of the northern Bix Six industrial states. Later his supporters also laid claim to California's 40 votes. New York (43), Pennsylvania (29), Michigan (21) were assumed as likely to be lost.

With Johnson in the White House, most political observers right now would underscore the earlier Goldwater estimate of his slim chances in the industrial Northeast — including potent New Jersey and Massachusetts with 31 votes between them.

Johnson's top political aides say, in fact, that the President's only real big state worries are Illinois and Ohio if Goldwater is the GOP nominee. Democratic concern in these states seems related more to party organizational troubles than to high estimates of Goldwater's strength.

Goldwater people speak hopefully of California. But independent appraisers now give it to Johnson by landslide proportions. The White House thinks California and New York are in the best shape of all the big ones for next November.

When Scranton aides had a socializing session with Goldwater spokesmen late one night at the Cleveland Governors conference the two groups ran through an electoral vote count. Scranton men were curious as to how the senator planned to build a tall victory. Later, a Scranton aide said: "Frankly, in their count, they stopped at Indiana on their way east."

This account seems slightly fuzzy, since Goldwater's managers always have claimed Ohio, which went for Richard Nixon in 1960 by 275,000.

Goldwater, of course, does look hopefully toward such other midwestern states as Wisconsin, Iowa, the Dakotas, Kansas, and Minnesota, and the five border states of Oklahoma, Kentucky, West Virginia, Maryland and Delaware.

Yet, again, few impartial judges believe the senator has any hope of so clean a sweep of these states as would be necessary to offset Johnson's apparent strength in many sectors.

Goldwater's strategists have their hands full this week in persuading Republican delegates to San Francisco that the President's strength can be overcome in the states with decisive electoral votes.

THE DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

For Poison Ivy Threat Injection, Not Pills

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.,
Newspaper Enterprise Association

Q—Are there any tablets or liquids that can be taken by mouth to prevent poison ivy?

A—The only preventive is desensitizing injections. These are especially recommended for persons subject to frequent unavoidable exposure to this and related plants. The injections must be taken two or three months before such an exposure to be effective. Cortisone and related hormones taken by mouth after the blisters appear will give relief, but no tablets will prevent the attack.

Q—I have aphthous stomatitis and have tried all kinds of mouthwash, but nothing helps. What can I do to get rid of it?

A—Aphthous stomatitis is another name for canker sores. Mouthwashes in general are of no help. Touching the sores with alum, tincture of Merthiolate, or silver nitrate helps to heal them, but in susceptible persons they are likely to return from time to time.

Q—What is hemoptysis? Is it serious?

A—Hemoptysis is bleeding from the lungs. Bleeding from any source should not be taken lightly. Hemoptysis may occur in persons with tuberculosis, pneumonia, parasitic diseases of the lungs, heart failure and lung cancer. Because most of these conditions can be diagnosed before they reach the stage of producing bleeding, I strongly recommend an annual chest X-ray, especially in persons over 40.

Q—About six months ago I had an operation for an inguinal hernia. Is it all right for me to go about my housework again? How can I prevent a recurrence?

A—The cause of your hernia was a congenital weakness in the pelvic wall. Following a repair operation this wall may be stronger than it was before, but there is always a chance of recurrence. Healing should be complete, externally and internally within four weeks, but routine housework should not be resumed until six weeks after the operation. After that the only precaution is to avoid heavy lifting.

We the Women

Home Life Counts

by Ruth Millett,
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

After a PTA meeting I went to the other evening, several couples were discussing how best to insure their children have a happy home life. One of the husbands ended the discussion by saying:

"You're making it all too complicated. All that children need in the way of home life are two parents who really love each other."

He's right, isn't he? If a man and woman love each other deeply, their children are going to have a good home life.

They may not have all of the so-called "advantages," but they'll have a lot of other things — important things.

They'll have a happy home because their parents live in harmony with each other. They'll never know the insecurity that children of quarreling, bickering parents know.

They'll learn respect for both parents—for if dad thinks mom is pretty much all right and vice-versa, the children will share that liking and respect.

If their parents really love each other, children acquire by example a great many admirable traits of character.

They learn unselfishness by seeing their parents' concern for each other.

They learn loyalty from the way their parents stick by each other in troubled times.

They learn how to get along with others as they see their parents working out problems instead of fighting over them.

Furthermore, when parents love each other, children themselves feel loved. For neither parent takes out bitterness or frustration on the children.

The next time you see happy, well-adjusted children, you won't have to look far for the cause. Right behind them will be a mother and father who truly love each other.

A Touch of the Old West In Sedalia

THEY CALL THIS SPORT! — Riding a "wild" Brahma bull in this scene is Frank Hottenspieler, president of the Sedalia Rodeo Cowboy Association. Frank explained that his position is called "in time." When the bull raises up in front, the rider is supposed to lean forward; when the animal comes up in the rear, the rider leans backwards. Hottenspieler says the bull would kill him immediately after a ride like this, but would eat out of his hand the next day. The animal becomes mean as efforts are made to negotiate him into the chute.

STUDY OF A COWBOY — In wide-brimmed hat, high top boots with shiny spurs, Hottenspieler presents a striking pose of a typical cowboy watching an event in the arena. He had just completed a ride on a Brahma bull when this photo was taken.

Rodeo Group Spurs Plans For Big Arena

Expect Annual Show To be Staged Here Starting Next Year

By W. D. HILL

A SHORT DISTANCE from the spot where Texas cattlemen aimed their herds of steers nearly a hundred years ago on the long trail to Sedalia from deep in the heart of... a new corral has been built.

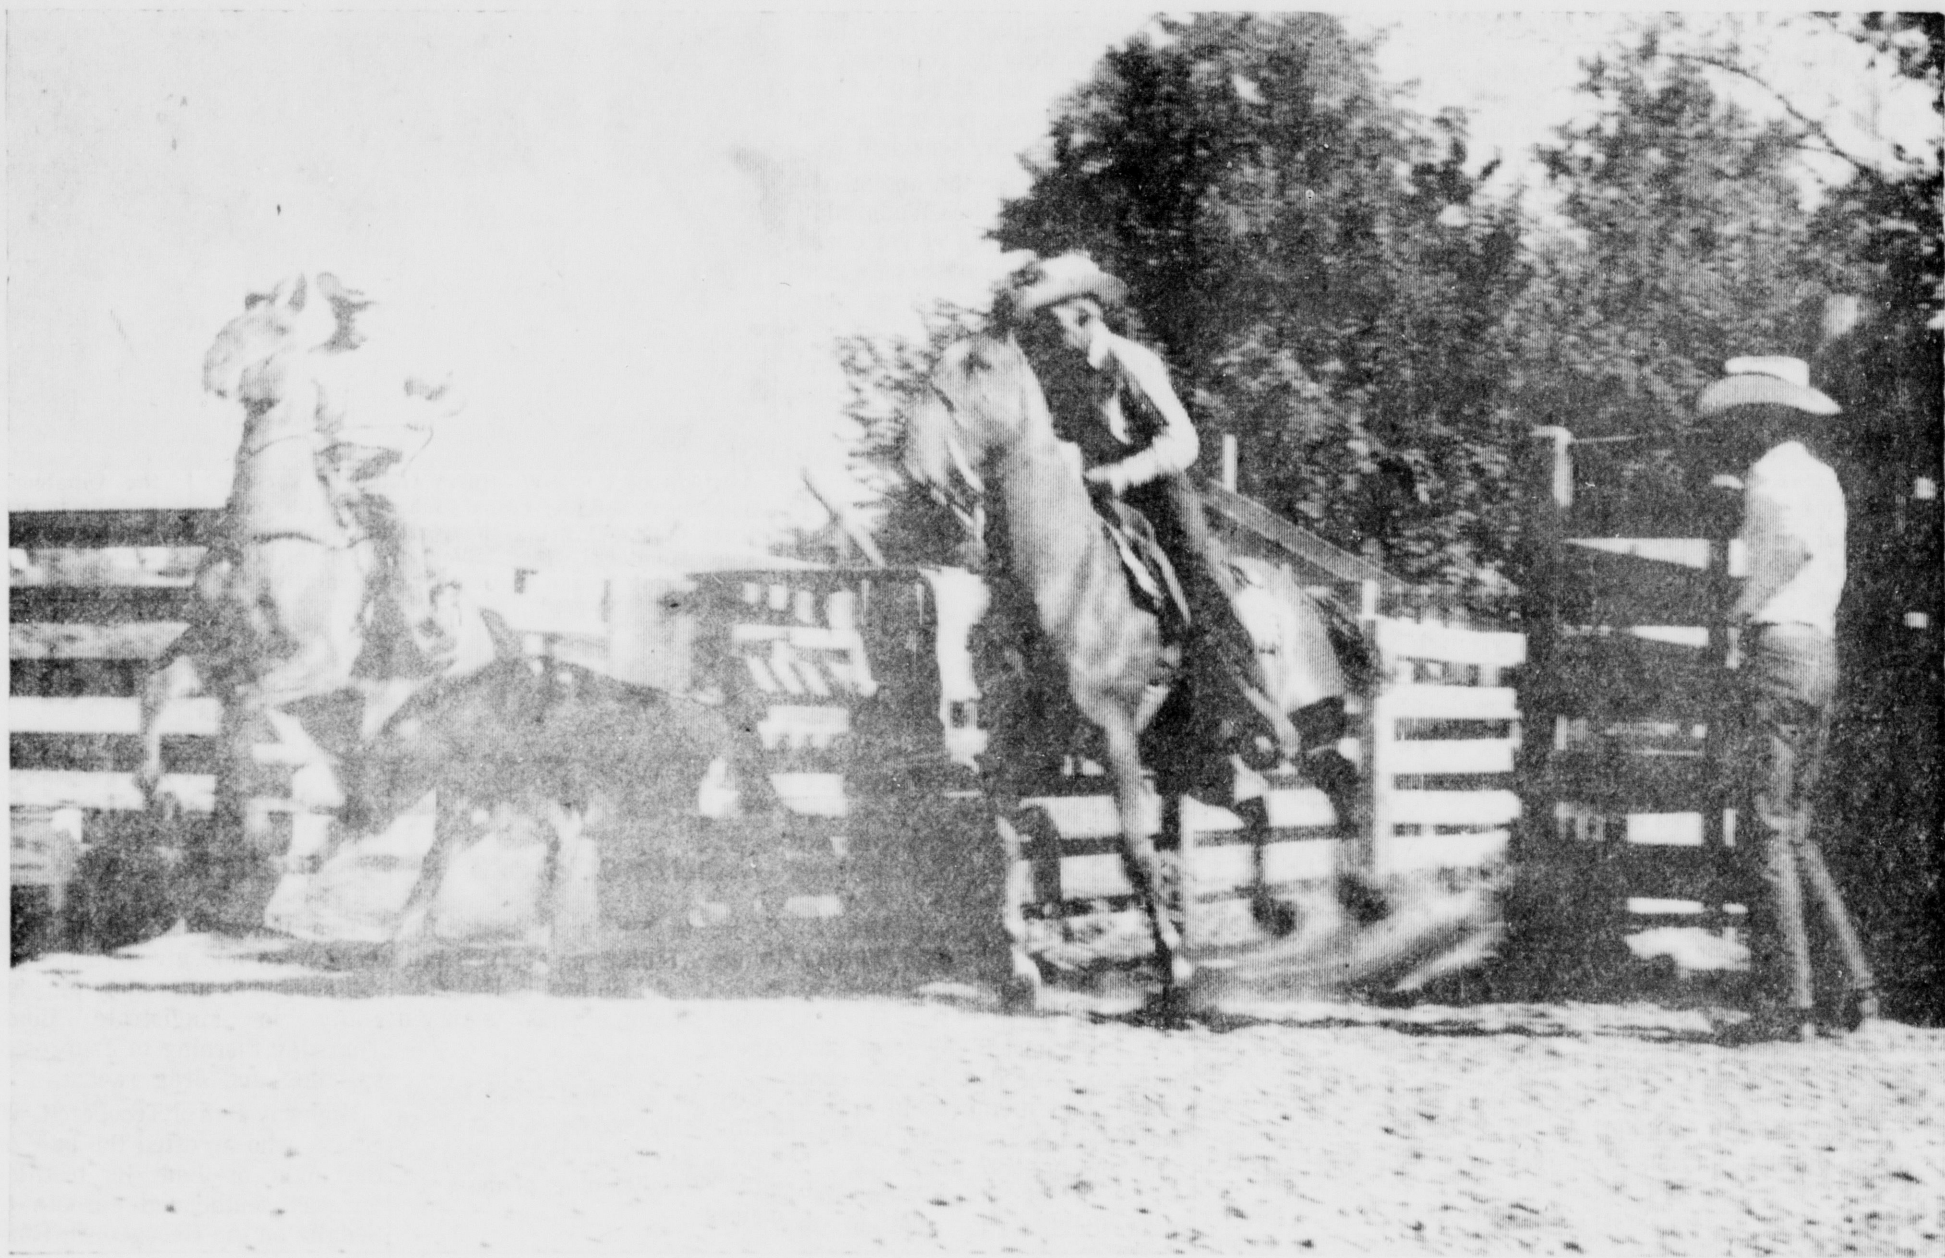

Large shiny belt buckles glisten in the bright July sunshine. Strapped to high-top boots, partially covered by blue denim trousers, the jingle of polished spurs can be heard.

"Outside!" That's the familiar cry of the rodeo cowboy that echoes from the chute in a far corner of the corral as a touch of the old West returns to the west central Missouri town that was once as familiar to cattlemen from Kansas to the Rio Grande as their own north forty.

The sound isn't coming from cattle drovers this time. A new breed of cowhands has taken over the range with a promise to give TV's Stoney Burke a run for his money in the rodeo arena.

Judging from recent work-outs, about the only thing Casey Tibbs and Jim Shoulders, all-time rodeo greats, have on this group are money, titles and a room full of trophies.

But the group, known as the

Sedalia Rodeo Cowboy Association, aims to reduce the separation margin in the months ahead as they apply their shiny spurs to plans to produce a gigantic rodeo by May or June of next year. It is to be an annual affair with professional rodeo stock, well-known rodeo cowboys and a star-studded cast on the side.

The association, a lifetime dream of professional rodeo cowboy, Frank Hottenspieler, 1616 West Tenth, president of the group, is being given an additional boost by Dr. A. L. Lowe who has donated 40 acres of land to the cause, situated west of the city. The arena is to be patterned after Camdenton's world-famous rodeo.

"The idea for the association kinda grew like a young colt," explains Hottenspieler, who is also a professional horse trainer here. "My father-in-law, Miles Evans, and I built this corral just off West 32nd Street, 1616 West Tenth, president of Passers-by became interested and the next thing you know we had enough people working out there to form an association. That was two years ago.

"I picked up that big Brahma from professional rodeo stock in Oklahoma, got us four calves and two bulldogging steers and the show was on the road."

Hottenspieler, a native of Versailles, Mo., became interested in professional rodeoing as a youngster and while working the rodeo circuit from Canada

The "hazer" position is to prevent the steer from making a sudden right turn as the bulldogger leaps from his horse, as local rodeo enthusiasts practice prior to leaving for an arena rodeo in which they participated to Florida was accepted as a member of the Rodeo Cowboy Association in 1954. He says he got most of his instructions from Casey Tibbs and Jim Shoulders. He is primarily a bull rider, but association members say he "sits" a horse as good as any hand.

Although the rodeo business is among the top ten on the list of risky professions by insurance companies, Hottenspieler says the local group has not had a serious injury in the three months they have been working out. "A few cracked ribs, or minor hurt is about all that's happened so far."

The local group has been working the rodeo circuit in a five state area. This is necessary, Hottenspieler explains, "because we won't accept a member unless he has worked at least one professional rodeo event."

So how do you work up to (Please turn to page 9, col. 3)

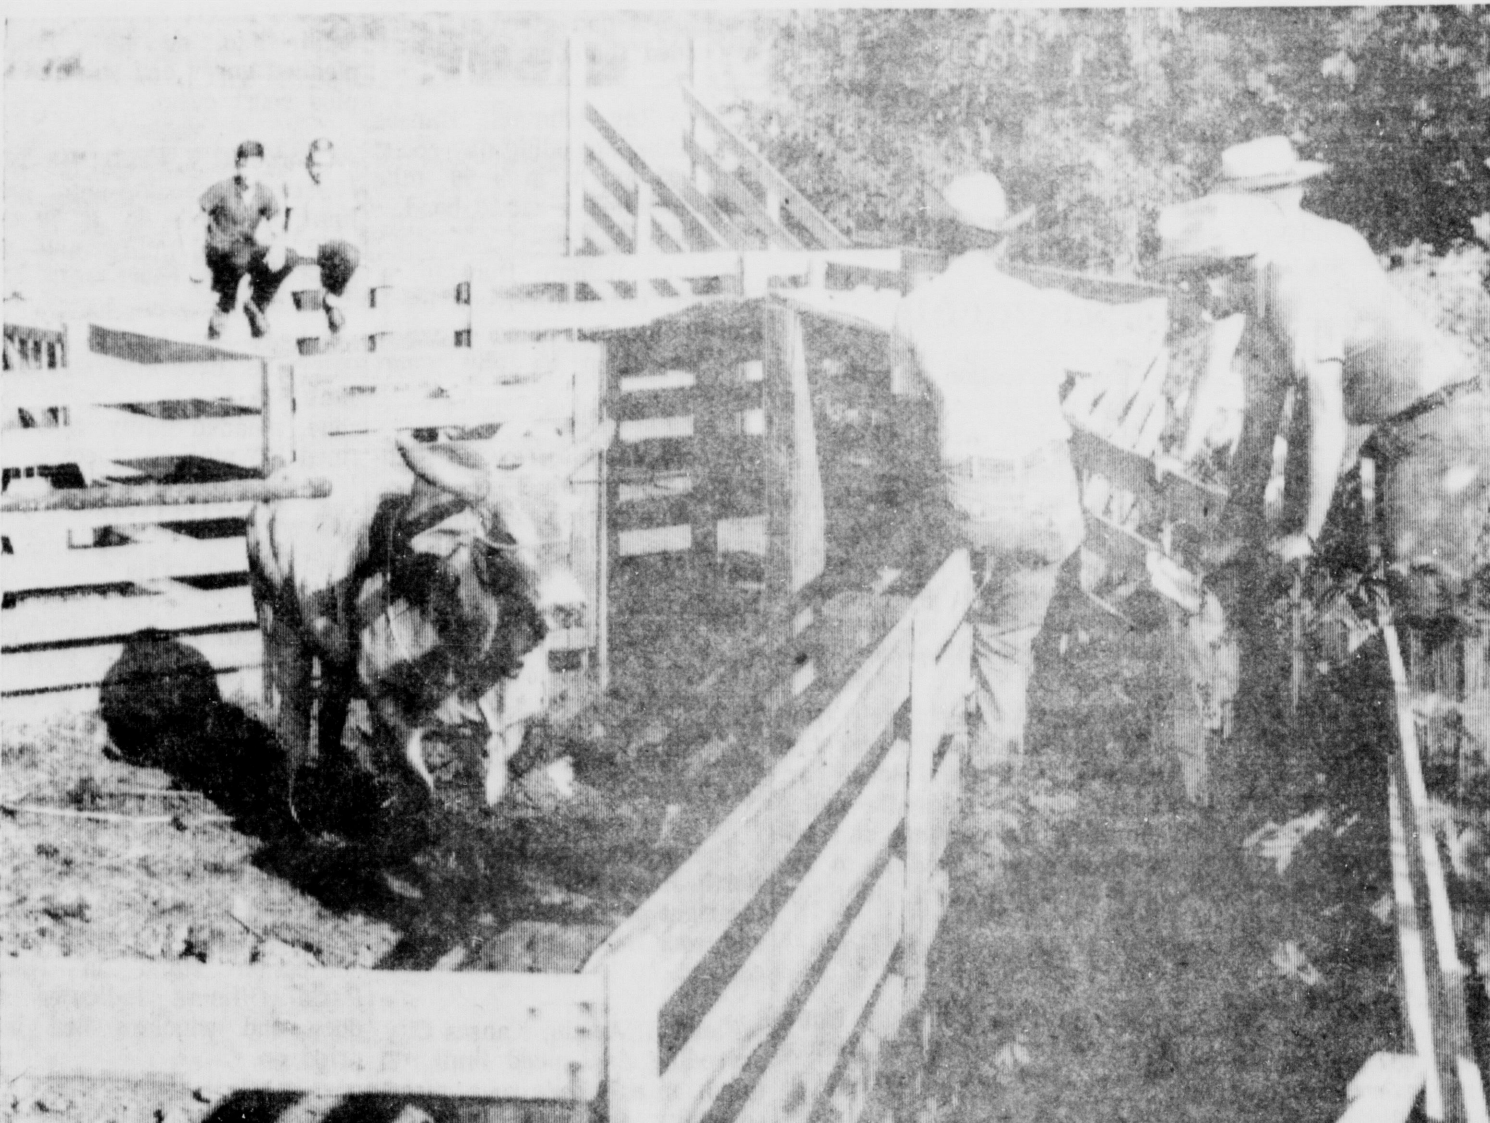

'OUTSIDE!' That's the cry, as Hottenspieler calls for the chute to be opened to turn the big Brahma loose in the arena. Note three cowboys at lower right holding the chute gate in a closed position.

RIDE LIKE THE WIND—The local cowboys move in fast-paced action during their practice sessions as depicted in this photo of Pete Young, with lariat swinging overhead while in pursuit of a steer.

END OF THE TRAIL DOGGIE — Billy Hottenspieler (right) is caught in this well-timed shot as he separated company with his horse during a bulldogging practice session. Seven seconds elapsed from the time the chute opened until the doggie was down. Buck Banner is working the "hazing" position.

MAD BRAHMA — It took some doing to get this two-ton Brahma to enter the chute at lower right. He was roped from three points and was finally "spooked" into entering the chute. The rodeo cowboys at right were using some persuasive language at this point. Youths in the background were maintaining a safe distance between them and the bull. Hottenspieler calls the bull Charmin, "because he's so gentle the day after I ride him."

ALL TIED UP — Frank Hottenspieler demonstrates the finale to a roping event where the calf is tied by at least three legs. Our photographer was inclined to pity the calf until Frank turned him loose. An unscheduled calf-photographer racing event followed.
